Soviet Builds Mediterranean Naval Power

NAPLES Italy (AP) - Soviet naval power in the strategic and troubled Mediterranean has increased sharply since the June Arab-Israeli war and now numbers between 30 and 40 surface ships. Additionally, a large number of Soviet submarines are continuously on the prowl, usually about 10.

These figures were given by Adm. Charles D. Griffin upon his retirement recently as commander - in - chief of NATO's Southern European Forces which has its headquarters in this Italian port.

It is obvious from outspoken statements by Griffin and other U. S. admirals that the buildup is giving serious concern in the West.

About half the Russian ships normally based in the Mediterranean are combat vessels, including missile-firing cruisers, destroyers and frigates. The rest of the ships provide support -- refueling, provisioning and other survaces. The fleet also is supported by land-based air power, presumably from Eastern European Communist countries such as Bulgaria.

In addition to increasing its naval force, the Soviet Union has provided it with amphibious craft and special troops.

At present the Soviet Union has no permanent base for its fleet in the Mediterranean, but its ships have been using the facilities of the Egyptian ports of Port Said and Alexandria, and also Algerian ports.

Until 1961 when the U.S.S.R. broke with Communist Albania, the Russian Mediterranean fleet could count on using bomb-proof submarine bases built by Nazi Germany in the Albanian port of Sazan. Now Red Chinese are reportedly in Sazan altering the base into a missile-firing location.

The Soviet Union is seeking to obtain rights to the former large French naval base at Mers-El-Kebir, Algeria. The base, part of which is underground, is located just outside Oran in extreme western Algeria.

The French formally withdrew from Mers-El-Kebir and turned it over to the Algerian government on Feb. 1.

Despite the rapid Russian fleet buildup in the past eight months it still is no match to forces available to NATO in the Mediterranean. These include Italian, Greek, Turkish navies, units of the British navy, and above all the powerful U. S. 6th Fleet.

The 6th Fleet normally consists of 50 ships, including two aircraft carriers and two missile cruisers, 25,000 men and 200 aircrafts, many of them supersonic and presumably having nuclear capability.

Currently on duty with the fleet is the cruiser Little Rock, flagship of Vice Adm. William L. Martin, another cruiser, the carriers Franklin D. Roosevelt and Shangri-La, 16 destroyers with surface-to-air missiles and antisubmarine rockets, and several submarines.

There also is a squadron of amphibious attack transports and cargo ships, minesweepers and a variety of amphibious assault boats.

The fleet also carries a combat ready battalion of 2,000 Marines with their own helicopters for airborne assault. It has no permanent Mediterranean base and needs none. It is constantly serviced by a collection of tankers, repair ships and supply and provision ships. Navy officers arbitrarily divide the Mediterranean into two sectors -- eastern and western areas with the Strait of Sicily between that island and Tunisia the dividing line. Normally about half of the 6th Fleet is kept in the Eastern Mediterranean.

Only the flagship has a home port outside the United States. It is the relatively small port of Gaeta north of Naples and serves primarily as a residence for the families of the 6th Fleet staff.

For most of the postwar period the 6th Fleet prowled the Mediterranean virtually unchallenged. That situation has abruptly changed in just eight months.

Troop Call-up Debated

WASHINGTON (AP) — About 50,000 National Guardsmen and Marine reserves would be called up under a plan tentatively proposed by the Joint Chiefs of Staff to bridge a Vietnam war-caused home forces manpower gap.

But in sketching details of the JCS plan, sources said Thursday night it is only one of a number of options being considered to reinforce U.S.-based forces depleted by the war's needs for troops.

The sources said the JCS proposal— which also calls for putting on alert another 130,000 or so reservists for possible later callup— may differ from proposals by the Army and the other services for solving the problem.

National Guard sources said they anticipated a call-up of up to 90,000 Guardsmen and reservists, but other sources discounted such an estimate as premature.

Word of the JCS proposal leaked out as the chief's chairman, Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, arrived in Vietnam after an unannounced flight from Washington for a visit expected to last several days.

Wheeler told newsmen in Saigon his purpose in making the trip was to get first-hand information on the war's course— information that presumably would include future troop requirements.

President Johnson has said the United States will up its troop ceiling— now set for 525,000 by July1if a larger force is needed.

A number of high-ranking members of congressional committees dealing with military affairs have recently bemoaned what they say is a reduction to dangerously low levels of forces based in the United States.

Such forces, ostensibly for use in emergencies that might arise around the world, were further reduced by last week's presidential order sending 10,500 Army paratroopers and Marines to Vietnam on a speeded-up deployment basis to meet a Westmoreland request.

In another Vietnam-related development, Robert S. McNamara speedily accepted Sen. J. W. Fulbright's request to make public the secretary of defense's full congressional testimony on the Gulf of Tonkin incident.

Pentagon security censors, working on a federal holiday Thursday at McNamra's behest, cleared for public release all but 250 words in the 62,200 words of testimony the defense chief gave the Senate Foreign Relations Committee in closed session earlier this week.

McNamara's move was the latest in his ongoing battle with Capitol Hill critics of U.S. war policy about the August 1964 naval engagement that touched off massive U.S. military escalation in Vietnam.

Fulbright, the Arkansas Democrat and Foreign Relations Committee chairman, claimed a 21,000-word statement McNamara issued the day of the hearing told only the administration's side of the incident.

Reds Attempt to Reinforce Hue Force; Khe Sanh Shelled Anew

SAIGON (AP) — North Vietnamese threw a new battalion of troops at Hue's Citadel Thursday and on another front sent their heaviest artillery barrage in two weeks thundering down on the U.S. Marine combat base at Khe Sanh.

Military spokesmen said the Communist battalion of perhaps 500 men stormed the northwest wall of the 1½-mile-square Citadel in Hue in an attempt to reinforce the besieged Communist troops inside the fortress.

South Vietnamese officers in Da Nang said government forces counterattacked and drove the enemy off killing 223 Communist troops. They said South Vietnamese casualties were light.

After a quiet day around Saigon, a 30-minute fireflight flared tonight at a South Vietnamese police checkpoint four miles northeast of the center of the capital on the highway to Bien Hoa.

Spokesmen said an enemy force of undetermined size attacked with AK47 assault rifles, but was driven back by combat police, army troops and helicopter gunships. Tracer bullets flashed in the night sky. There was no immediate report of casualties or damage.

With the battle for Hue in its 24th day, U.S. military spokesmen said the North Vietnamese and Viet Cong are "very desperately trying to reinforce" the Citadel, where an estimated 350 or more Red troops hold part of the southern wall and the adjoining palace compound where Vietnam's emperors lived in the 19th century.

The U.S. spokesman said the government troops were reacting quickly and effectively and killed another 126 enemy troops in a series of six lesser clashes, most of them holdouts or infiltrators in the northwest section of the fortress. Government casualties again were termed light.

Vietnam Press, the government news agency, reported that two companies of South Vietnamese marines captured one gate of the inner walled palace just inside the outer south wall. The Communist command post is reported to be inside the inner palace grounds.

U.S. Marines reported killing 21 Communist troops in clashes Thursday as they secured the east wall of the Citadel. But AP correspondent George McArthur reported from Hue that the Communists in strength still held the east bank of a canal running parallel to the east wall.

Just to the north and west of Hue, more than 1,000 U.S. air cavalrymen and paratroopers were fighting a running battle to block Communist reinforcements and supplies headed for Hue.

The U.S. Command reported that the American force had killed 163 enemy troops in the past two days and captured 92 gas masks apparently consigned to the Communist forces in Hue, where the Marines have been using tear gas on enemy positions. Twelve Americans were reported killed and 137 wounded in these operations.

On the northwest frontier where an estimated 40,000 North Vietnamese troops are poised, Communist gunners slammed 377 rocket, mortar and artillery rounds Thursday into the U.S. Marine combat base at Khe Sanh and Marine positions flanking it.

The barrages killed nine Americans, wounded 22, destroyed a big CH53 helicopter and damaged a twin-engine C123 cargo plane.

Twenty miles to the northeast, nearly 300 mortar and artillery rounds hit the Marine outpost at Con Thien, just below the demilitarized zone. But the bunkered Marines reported only two men wounded.

Air Force B52 bombers made two strikes Thursday and two more today on the enemy gun positions around Khe Sanh.

Little ground action was reported elsewhere, and for the first time in three weeks there was no report of fighting in the suburbs of Saigon.

In the Mekong Delta Thursday, South Vietnamese infantrymen of the 9th Division killed 40 guerrillas in a battle two miles northeast of My Tho. Nine government troops were killed, 37 were wounded and three armored personnel carriers were destroyed or damaged by enemy rockets, a government spokesman said.

U.S. warplanes flew through the monsoon overcast in North Vietnam to attack the Hoa Lac Airfield 20 miles west of Hanoi. Pilots used radar to guide them because of the murky weather. Other strikes were aimed at two radar sites 85 miles northwest of Hanoi and at highways and storage areas in central and southern North Vietnam.

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, arrived in Saigon, presumably to determine whether the number of U.S. troops in Vietnam should be increased above the present allotted quota of 525,000 because of the setback dealt by the Communist offensive against South Vietnam's cities and towns and the threat to Khe Sanh and the other Marine posts along the demilitarized zone.

Informed sources in Washington said the callup of 50,000 National Guardsmen and Marine reserves is one of several options being considered.

Economy Moves Outlined

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today to ease visa requirements for tourists entering the United States.

The Texas White House also announced creation by Johnson of a Cabinet committee on price stability that will "recommend suitable legislation which would advance the objective of price stability in a free market economy."

The President said in his Feb. 1 economic report to Congress that such a group was planned.

Johnson, in letters to the presiding officers of the Senate and House, proposed legislation that would eliminate, in many cases, the requirement that tourists obtain visas before entering the United States. Such visas now are required of all visitors except those from Canada and Mexico.

Here is how the administration plan would work: Tourists from countries willing to treat Americans in like fashion would not need a visa if they were visiting for 90 days or less, had valid passports and were traveling with prepaid, nonrefundable roundtrip tickets.

The announcement said security risks, narcotics traffickers and those convicted of serious crimes still would be barred.

In practice, sources said, the eased requirements would apply primarily to tourists from Western Europe. They said it was doubtful the program would be extended to Iron Curtain countries because these nations would not likely ease their own requirements on visits by Americans.

"By imposing time consuming entry requirements," Johnson said, "we discourage tourism to the United States at a time when we are acutely concerned with our balance of payments.

"By imposing stringent requirements, we appear to a foreign visitor to be greeting him grudgingly rather than graciously."

Members of the Cabinet committee on price stability are the secretaries of treasury, commerce and labor, the budget director and the chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors.

In addition to seeking legislative ways to promote stable prices, the panel would make in-depth studies of industries that are sources of inflationary pressures and work with business, labor and public representatives to seek cooperative wage-price restraint.

Morton Says He Will Not Seek Third Term

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)— Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., said today that "for very compelling personal reasons" he will retire at 60 instead of seeking a third term next fall.

At a news conference in a downtown hotel, the former GOP national chairman said: "To use an old Kentucky expression, I suppose I am just plain 'track sore'."

Morton said his decision is final. Only one week ago he indicated he would run. There was heavy pressure from many Republican sources to get him to change his mind about retirement.

The announcement opened the gate for a possible stampede of Republicans wanting to succeed Morton in the seat he has held since 1956.

In a six-sentence statement, Morton said "it is not the coming election that concerns me but the challenge and responsibility of a six-year term." He said that in July he will have served 27 years with the government.

Morton's statement confirmed reports on the eve of the news conference that he really was retiring after this year.

Regarded as immediately in line for possible GOP succession are Rep. William Cowger, R-Ky., and his political friend, Jefferson County (Louisville) Judge Marlow Cook.

Although Cowger is in the U.S. House, Cook was a Republican candidate for Kentucky governor last spring and still has a statewide organization.

On the Democratic side, former state Commerce Commissioner Katherine Peden has announced along with former state Representative Ted Osborne, D-Lexington.

The Republicans have held an unshakable grip on the U.S. Senate seats in Kentucky for more than a decade despite the state's tendency, except for last November, to vote Democratic otherwise.

Gov. Louie B. Nunn, the first Republican elected in 24 years, indicated he might have a statement later today on Morton's withdrawal.

There were reports that the health of both Morton and his wife were the basic reasons for his refusal to run again, but Morton declined comment on this aspect.

Morton, once a hawk on Vietnam, has switched to a dovish stance and even criticized the generalship in the war.

Two Motorists Suffer Injuries

Two motorists suffered injuries in a two car collision at 10:55 a.m. Thursday at Pine and Helen streets.

Paul E. Churchill, Dexter, suffered fractured ribs and Marjorie Lemonds, 2011 Indiana St., suffered a sprained ankle and bruised knees. Both were treated and released at Missouri Delta Community hospital, investigating policeman John Evans reported.

The accident occurred as Churchill was traveling north on Pine and Mrs. Lemonds drove east on Helen. Churchill was charged with failure to yield the right of way.

In other police activity, Will Pointer, Sikeston, was charged at 5:15 p.m. Thursday with public intoxication.

Good Reports Follow Surgery on Lurleen

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — An aide said all of Gov. Lurleen Wallace's "vital signs are normal" today and she is in good spirits after removal of her third cancerous tumor in two years.

A bulletin on the governor's condition said it is satisfactory.

The emergency surgery was performed at St. Margaret's Hospital Thursday after Mrs. Wallace was taken to the hospital with severe abdominal pains. Doctors removed a small malignant tumor along with a section of her bowel.

A statement today from Ed Ewing, the governor's former news secretary, said Mrs. Wallace suffered some discomfort Thursday night which, he said, "is normal for surgery of this magnitude."

"Her doctors say all vital signs are normal this morning," the statement said, "and her spirits are good."

Ewing first announced that the next bulletin would be issued at 9 a.m. Saturday, but later he said there will be one about 4 p.m. today.

The 41-year-old governor spent approximately four hours on the operating table here Thursday afternoon, as surgeons removed a radiation-shriveled, cancerous tumor, and a section of her bowel.

Examination of the liver, lymphatic system and other abdominal organs, they said, revealed that they were normal.

It was the third cancer operation for Mrs. Wallace in about two years, and followed by seven months the removal of an egg-sized malignancy and a section of her colon in an operation at M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston, Tex.

Mrs. Wallace was taken to St. Margaret's Hospital near downtown Montgomery before dawn Thursday, in severe pain from an intestinal obstruction. The pain had been prevalent for about two weeks.

She will spend the next two to three weeks recuperating in her fourth-floor, flower-bedecked room at the hospital, located within sight of the state Capitol dome.

The team of physicians— Dr. Felix Rutledge, gynecologist in chief at M. D. Anderson Hospital, and Drs. Hamilton Hutchinson, Harry Till and Joe Perry— said that they could not give assurances that Mrs. Wallace will not suffer still another recurrence of cancer, but added, "We feel real good about it."

They said the radiation therapy she underwent following last year's operation, and earlier this year following the discovery of the pelvic nodule removed Thursday, should continue to have a beneficial effect.

Mrs. Wallace's husband, former Gov. George Wallace, canceled a speaking engagement at Cape Kennedy, Fla., Thursday to remain with his wife. Aides said he was still at the hospital Thursday night, some 16 hours after Mrs. Wallace was hospitalized.

Some early American Indian tribes cremated their dead.

Draft Call up For April

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon today ordered the drafting of 48,000 men in April, the highest such call in 18 months.

The Pentagon said the new draft quotas "support currently approved force levels and will assure a timely flow of replacements for men completing their terms of service."

A sharp increase in draft calls, which started in January, has resulted partly because of the discharge of men inducted starting in late 1965 when the United States set in motion a big buildup in Vietnam and a corresponding over-all buildup of its military manpower.

The draft took 230,000 men last year and high defense officials have predicted that the 1968 inductions would total about 302,000, an increase of more than 70,000 over last year.

The April call of 48,000 is the highest since the 49,200 inducted into the Army in October 1966.

The March figure stands at 41,000, February 23,300 and January 34,000.

Last year, draft calls fell as low as 10,900 inductions in February.

The Pentagon said the new Marine Corps draft call "results from the need to replace about 19,000 men inducted into the Marine Corps in late 1965 and early 1966 to help support an accelerated buildup of the Marine Corps at that time."

Two Drivers Charged After Mishaps

In a one-car accident Thursday at 4:10 p.m. on the One Mile road, two miles south of Dexter, Janet Joseph, 21, Essex, lost control of her 1966 Ford while rounding a curve. The vehicle ran off the road, struck a house and overturned.

She was charged with careless and imprudent driving and excessive speed.

Thursday at 11:55 a.m. on highway 84, two miles east of Kennett, a 1954 Chrysler, driven by Freddie Singleton, 17, Kennett, collided with a 1966 Ford, driven by Cecil Morris, 20, Memphis.

Singleton was arrested on a charge of making a left turn in front of the Morris car, which was passing another vehicle.

The U.S. Command reported that the American force had killed 163 enemy troops in the past two days and captured 92 gas masks apparently consigned to the Communist forces in Hue, where the Marines have been using tear gas on enemy positions. Twelve Americans were reported killed and 137 wounded in these operations.

On the northwest frontier where an estimated 40,000 North Vietnamese troops are poised, Communist gunners slammed 377 rocket, mortar and artillery rounds Thursday into the U.S. Marine combat base at Khe Sanh and Marine positions flanking it.

The barrages killed nine Americans, wounded 22, destroyed a big CH53 helicopter and damaged a twin-engine C123 cargo plane.

Twenty miles to the northeast, nearly 300 mortar and artillery rounds hit the Marine outpost at Con Thien, just below the demilitarized zone. But the bunkered Marines reported only two men wounded.

Air Force B52 bombers made two strikes Thursday and two more today on the enemy gun positions around Khe Sanh.

Little ground action was reported elsewhere, and for the first time in three weeks there was no report of fighting in the suburbs of Saigon.

In the Mekong Delta Thursday, South Vietnamese infantrymen of the 9th Division killed 40 guerrillas in a battle two miles northeast of My Tho. Nine government troops were killed, 37 were wounded and three armored personnel carriers were destroyed or damaged by enemy rockets, a government spokesman said.

U.S. warplanes flew through the monsoon overcast in North Vietnam to attack the Hoa Lac Airfield 20 miles west of Hanoi. Pilots used radar to guide them because of the murky weather. Other strikes were aimed at two radar sites 85 miles northwest of Hanoi and at highways and storage areas in central and southern North Vietnam.

Gen. Earle G. Wheeler, chairman of the U.S. Joint Chiefs of Staff, arrived in Saigon, presumably to determine whether the number of U.S. troops in Vietnam should be increased above the present allotted quota of 525,000 because of the setback dealt by the Communist offensive against South Vietnam's cities and towns and the threat to Khe Sanh and the other Marine posts along the demilitarized zone.

Informed sources in Washington said the callup of 50,000 National Guardsmen and Marine reserves is one of several options being considered.

Economy Moves Outlined

AUSTIN, Tex. (AP) — President Johnson asked Congress today to ease visa requirements for tourists entering the United States.

The Texas White House also announced creation by Johnson of a Cabinet committee on price stability that will "recommend suitable legislation which would advance the objective of price stability in a free market economy."

The President said in his Feb. 1 economic report to Congress that such a group was planned.

Johnson, in letters to the presiding officers of the Senate and House, proposed legislation that would eliminate, in many cases, the requirement that tourists obtain visas before entering the United States. Such visas now are required of all visitors except those from Canada and Mexico.

Here is how the administration plan would work: Tourists from countries willing to treat Americans in like fashion would not need a visa if they were visiting for 90 days or less, had valid passports and were traveling with prepaid, nonrefundable roundtrip tickets.

The announcement said security risks, narcotics traffickers and those convicted of serious crimes still would be barred.

In practice, sources said, the eased requirements would apply primarily to tourists from Western Europe. They said it was doubtful the program would be extended to Iron Curtain countries because these nations would not likely ease their own requirements on visits by Americans.

"By imposing time consuming entry requirements," Johnson said, "we discourage tourism to the United States at a time when we are acutely concerned with our balance of payments.

"By imposing stringent requirements, we appear to a foreign visitor to be greeting him grudgingly rather than graciously."

Members of the Cabinet committee on price stability are the secretaries of treasury, commerce and labor, the budget director and the chairman of the Council of Economic Advisors.

In addition to seeking legislative ways to promote stable prices, the panel would make in-depth studies of industries that are sources of inflationary pressures and work with business, labor and public representatives to seek cooperative wage-price restraint.

Morton Says He Will Not Seek Third Term

LOUISVILLE, Ky. (AP)— Sen. Thruston B. Morton, R-Ky., said today that "for very compelling personal reasons" he will retire at 60 instead of seeking a third term next fall.

At a news conference in a downtown hotel, the former GOP national chairman said: "To use an old Kentucky expression, I suppose I am just plain 'track sore'."

Morton said his decision is final. Only one week ago he indicated he would run. There was heavy pressure from many Republican sources to get him to change his mind about retirement.

The announcement opened the gate for a possible stampede of Republicans wanting to succeed Morton in the seat he has held since 1956.

In a six-sentence statement, Morton said "it is not the coming election that concerns me but the challenge and responsibility of a six-year term." He said that in July he will have served 27 years with the government.

Morton's statement confirmed reports on the eve of the news conference that he really was retiring after this year.

Regarded as immediately in line for possible GOP succession are Rep. William Cowger, R-Ky., and his political friend, Jefferson County (Louisville) Judge Marlow Cook.

Although Cowger is in the U.S. House, Cook was a Republican candidate for Kentucky governor last spring and still has a statewide organization.

On the Democratic side, former state Commerce Commissioner Katherine Peden has announced along with former state Representative Ted Osborne, D-Lexington.

The Republicans have held an unshakable grip on the U.S. Senate seats in Kentucky for more than a decade despite the state's tendency, except for last November, to vote Democratic otherwise.

Gov. Louie B. Nunn, the first Republican elected in 24 years, indicated he might have a statement later today on Morton's withdrawal.

There were reports that the health of both Morton and his wife were the basic reasons for his refusal to run again, but Morton declined comment on this aspect.

Morton, once a hawk on Vietnam, has switched to a dovish stance and even criticized the generalship in the war.

Two Motorists Suffer Injuries

Two motorists suffered injuries in a two car collision at 10:55 a.m. Thursday at Pine and Helen streets.

Paul E. Churchill, Dexter, suffered fractured ribs and Marjorie Lemonds, 2011 Indiana St., suffered a sprained ankle and bruised knees. Both were treated and released at Missouri Delta Community hospital, investigating policeman John Evans reported.

The accident occurred as Churchill was traveling north on Pine and Mrs. Lemonds drove east on Helen. Churchill was charged with failure to yield the right of way.

In other police activity, Will Pointer, Sikeston, was charged at 5:15 p.m. Thursday with public intoxication.

Good Reports Follow Surgery on Lurleen

MONTGOMERY, Ala. (AP) — An aide said all of Gov. Lurleen Wallace's "vital signs are normal" today and she is in good spirits after removal of her third cancerous tumor in two years.

A bulletin on the governor's condition said it is satisfactory.

The emergency surgery was performed at St. Margaret's Hospital Thursday after Mrs. Wallace was taken to the hospital with severe abdominal pains. Doctors removed a small malignant tumor along with a section of her bowel.

A statement today from Ed Ewing, the governor's former news secretary, said Mrs. Wallace suffered some discomfort Thursday night which, he said, "is normal for surgery of this magnitude."

"Her doctors say all vital signs are normal this morning," the statement said, "and her spirits are good."

Ewing first announced that the next bulletin would be issued at 9 a.m. Saturday, but later he said there will be one about 4 p.m. today.

The 41-year-old governor spent approximately four hours on the operating table here Thursday afternoon, as surgeons removed a radiation-shriveled, cancerous tumor, and a section of her bowel.

Examination of the liver, lymphatic system and other abdominal organs, they said, revealed that they were normal.

It was the third cancer operation for Mrs. Wallace in about two years, and followed by seven months the removal of an egg-sized malignancy and a section of her colon in an operation at M. D. Anderson Hospital and Tumor Institute in Houston, Tex.

Mrs. Wallace was taken to St. Margaret's Hospital near downtown Montgomery before dawn Thursday, in severe pain from an intestinal obstruction. The pain had been prevalent for about two weeks.

She will spend the next two to three weeks recuperating in her fourth-floor, flower-bedecked room at the hospital, located within sight of the state Capitol dome.

The team of physicians— Dr. Felix Rutledge, gynecologist in chief at M. D. Anderson Hospital, and Drs. Hamilton Hutchinson, Harry Till and Joe Perry— said that they could not give assurances that Mrs. Wallace will not suffer still another recurrence of cancer, but added, "We feel real good about it."

They said the radiation therapy she underwent following last year's operation, and earlier this year following the discovery of the pelvic nodule removed Thursday, should continue to have a beneficial effect.

Mrs. Wallace's husband, former Gov. George Wallace, canceled a speaking engagement at Cape Kennedy, Fla., Thursday to remain with his wife. Aides said he was still at the hospital Thursday night, some 16 hours after Mrs. Wallace was hospitalized.

Draft Call up For April

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Pentagon today ordered the drafting of 48,000 men in April, the highest such call in 18 months.

The Pentagon said the new draft quotas "support currently approved force levels and will assure a timely flow of replacements for men completing their terms of service."

A sharp increase in draft calls, which started in January, has resulted partly because of the discharge of men inducted starting in late 1965 when the United States set in motion a big buildup in Vietnam and a corresponding over-all buildup of its military manpower.

The draft took 230,000 men last year and high defense officials have predicted that the 1968 inductions would total about 302,000, an increase of more than 70,000 over last year.

The April call of 48,000 is the highest since the 49,200 inducted into the Army in October 1966.

The March figure stands at 41,000, February 23,300 and January 34,000.

Last year, draft calls fell as low as 10,900 inductions in February.

The Pentagon said the new Marine Corps draft call "results from the need to replace about 19,000 men inducted into the Marine Corps in late 1965 and early 1966 to help support an accelerated buildup of the Marine Corps at that time."

Two Drivers Charged After Mishaps

In a one-car accident Thursday at 4:10 p.m. on the One Mile road, two miles south of Dexter, Janet Joseph, 21, Essex, lost control of her 1966 Ford while rounding a curve. The vehicle ran off the road, struck a house and overturned.

She was charged with careless and imprudent driving and excessive speed.

Thursday at 11:55 a.m. on highway 84, two miles east of Kennett, a 1954 Chrysler, driven by Freddie Singleton, 17, Kennett, collided with a 1966 Ford, driven by Cecil Morris, 20, Memphis.

Singleton was arrested on a charge of making a left turn in front of the Morris car, which was passing another vehicle.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

There isn't much a Sikeston resident can say about the narrow margin by which Morehouse school district patrons voted in favor of annexation with Sikeston's school district except "welcome."

The Sikeston school board's approval of the consolidation is expected to be a mere formality.

To Morehouse residents we would add only the final words of hope they will be happy with the new school arrangements.

Because most persons are influenced strongly by their pocketbook interest, the annexation proposal obviously was controversial.

For one thing it means an increase in taxes.

This is never welcomed by anyone and especially by those who have no children in school.

For many Morehouse residents the choice may have seemed to be between two undesirable alternatives --annexation into an enlarged New Madrid county district having a more distant high school or with nearby Sikeston.

Because communities like to retain control of their schools neither proposal was appealing to many residents.

It is a reasonable expectation that if the annexation with the Sikeston district is consummated, the Morehouse school facilities will continue to be used.

It is also likely that the Morehouse high school would be merged into the Sikeston system because of the more extensive curriculum that the larger high school can offer students.

Since a better education is the goal of all parents for their children, Morehouse residents with high school age boys and girls should not be displeased with the consolidation.

The annexation may have a desirable economic effect for property owners in Morehouse. It will mean insofar as school is concerned that the Morehouse resident can obtain the same education for his children that is offered in Sikeston. This may increase demand for real estate in Morehouse and the prices buyers are willing to pay for it.

For those parents, who are now sending their children to the schools in Sikeston, the annexation means that they no longer must pay tuition. This could reduce their school costs.

Dear Charlie:

I haven't yet seen in the Standard this story--

The little boy came home from school and says to his father, "Daddy, do you have sex relations?"

After stuttering a bit, the father admits he has. Then the little boy turns to his mother and says, "Mommy, do you have sex relations?" And she tells him she does.

Then the little man inquired, "Why don't they come to see us?"

RIESEL AHEAD ON ROCKEFELLER, GARBAGE, A.D.A., AND NEGRO STORIES

Day after day, when our columnist Victor Riesel is not atop the news, he's days, even weeks ahead of it, as it breaks in front-page headlines and long wire service stories.

On Nov. 15, Riesel filed one of the most significant stories to break on the racial front. At that time Riesel wrote that: "Labor's skilled trade unions (will) open doors wide to Negroes of all ghettos."

Three months later, on Feb. 14, the presidents of 18 building and construction trades unions met in Bal Harbour, Fla., and pledged, word for word, action by action, to do exactly as Riesel had predicted. The story hit many a front page and will make news for a long time.

Our columnist named the three labor leaders-- Lou Stulberg, I. W. Abel and Joe Beirne -- who would resign, when, and for what reasons. This story broke, corroborating Riesel word for word, three months later on Feb. 13. Again the front pages backed up Riesel.

And it was Victory Riesel whose long series of exclusive columns on the intimate relations between New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and New York labor leaders provided the only authentic background of the big city's garbage revolt. For two years now, Riesel has reported the conversations, the secret meetings, the confidential cooperation between Mr. Rockefeller and the labor leaders to whose rescue he came during the past week.

Only in Riesel's column were the names of the labor men -- such as the sanitation union's president John DeLury, leader of the street cleaners strike which created all the havoc -- disclosed.

As long ago as last Sept. 25, Riesel reported that New York state courts would set a precedent by depriving a municipal service union of its dues checkoff rights as punishment for violation of the no-strike law.

Months later, the striking New York teachers union was thus punished. On Feb. 14, 1968, the striking garbage workers also were similarly punished. State, county and municipal officials everywhere are now watching developments in New York State as a possible solution to civil service employes strikes.

These are but a few of the reporting highlights of Riesel coverage.

Day after day, the inside story, the ahead-of-the-news story, the interpretive stories on a most significant front -- labor -- are in his column.

FROM WASHINGTON TO JOHNSON

The American people should realize that the total ($186.1 billion budget) is as much money spent by one President in a single year as was spent by all 32 Presidents from George Washington, starting in 1789, through half of the third term of Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1942. That's 153 years, and includes all the wars through the first year of World War II.

When you try to visualize all those dollars, you wonder where they come from. The answer is-- if Mr. Johnson can get a tax increase--from the pockets of the American people and out of the treasuries of American business, except for 8 billions to be borrowed.

This all means that, in eight years under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, spending by the federal government will have risen -- in total -- from just under 100 billion dollars to 186 billion, a rise not far from 90 per cent.

This is an election year -- and need we say more!

The Citizens Public Expenditure Survey, Inc. of New York has stated: "If your income is to be reduced by a tax increase to fight inflation, then government has a responsibility to reduce its nondefense spending by an equal amount. Spending by government is just as inflationary as spending by consumers. The prices you pay for the things you want do not necessarily come down. Instead, less of those things are produced because the production effort is shifted to meeting the demand for the things government is spending money for. . . You still have a choice, but the choice won't be yours for long unless you let your representatives in government know where you stand right now on further tax increases -- federal, state and local."

UP TO THE PEOPLE

"I will guarantee you that when the headlines are printed following the submission of the President's budget. . . the figures referred to will be most confusing to those who try to understand what the real picture is." Those words were spoken months ago by the chairman of the Appropriations Committee, Representative George H. Mahon of the U.S. House of Representatives. Many will now consider his remark the understatement of the year.

The deficit estimates vary by many billions. The only thing that is clear is that there will be a huge deficit. This means that in coming months the spectre of inflation will threaten the most carefully planned family budgets all across the land.

What is the answer to inflation? Representative Mahon expresses it in a few words. "The ultimate answer is only partly in Congress; it is only partly in the White House. More importantly, control of public spending rests with the people who create public sentiment and elect officials of government. . . Congress is not going to practice restraint unless the message comes through loud and clear from the people generally." These are strong words and well deserved in the area of nondefense spending.

Barring an unforeseen buying spree by consumers, production of consumer goods will undoubtedly slump off the first quarter of this year, the research staff of the National Federation of Independent Business reports.

With the first report in on the December respondents to the continuous field survey, no appreciable rise in inventory build up is noted for that month. In fact, it dropped from 24 per cent in October to 23 per cent in December, just slightly higher than 22 per cent in November.

Inasmuch as interest rates being charged independent firms nationally average close to 7 per cent, the entire year was marked by a reluctance to borrow to build inventory more than absolutely necessary to meet the demands of the public.

In addition, with some 45 states imposing inventory taxes on goods held in stock, resistance by wholesalers and retailers to talking shipments from factories will be stiffened. This is due to the fact that in most of these states the tax rates have been increased.

Whether or not a slackening demand for consumer goods will be reflected in factory employment is problematical, it is felt, as further escalation of the Vietnam war could result in the manpower being further employed in the production of war goods.

VIET CONG WANTS COALITION

A captured Viet Cong document reveals that communists in Vietnam would welcome the establishment of a coalition government, which they would use as a vehicle to gain complete power in that country.

In the document the communists admit that they are unable to win a total military victory in Vietnam. They therefore plan to seek a coalition government, through which they could gradually gain control of South Vietnam.

The Viet Cong say they are not strong enough now to deal the U. S. and South Vietnam a lethal blow. They believe a coalition government will be advantagious to their revolutionary goals. It would not matter to the Viet Cong if there were a few non-communist notables at the top, but the National Liberation Front's political program must be followed.

The document states that the immediate goal of a coalition government is a "neutral independent, national democratic regime progressing toward socialism." The long-range goal remains the creation of a "Socialist" regime, which means communist control of the entire country.

The Viet Cong add that their party will exercise over-all control over the coalition, and if their agents are firmly established and they properly carry out the tactics of the Front, their party will lead the revolution to their final objective.

Some U. S. Senators and Congressmen have stated that they favor a coalition government as a means of ending the war in Vietnam. It is obvious that the Viet Cong also favor a coalition government, because it would be the easiest route to political power. The fact remains that for those who love freedom there is no alternative to victory over the communist aggressors. HLH

NEGROES' NEW FRONT

Launch Attack For Status In Mass Industries

Washington, D. C.: -- Soon it will become the sacred trust of one man in the governmental labyrinth to make certain that employers become aggressive about sex.

Those who hire will have to take positive action. It is the wish of Lyndon Johnson. It is written in an executive order. Come Oct. 1, no "boss," no corporation, no agency will be able to man a project without actively surveying the market to see if he can't do some of the manning with women.

It's an awesome assignment, but the chap who sighs wearily over implementing the final section of the presidential directive, Executive Order 11246, has been through the fire and believes he can survive.

Frequently, that fire has been hell for the man in charge, Ed Sylvester, director of the Labor Dept's Office of Federal Contract Compliance (OFCC).

For the moment he can give it only his spare time, since his headquarters now must monitor almost $100 billion worth of construction and the usage of tens of billions of our federal money.

It is he and his small staff who will see to it that the 8,500 locals of the building and construction trades unions obey the eloquent dictum of their 18 international presidents -- and open their doors, membership rosters, apprenticeship schools and job referral systems to men of all races, colors and creeds. He has until fall to add the word sex.

Even in these days of escalation, his headquarters makes sophisticated computers seem like electronic tortoises. Somehow, working with every government agency, the OFCC must trace every federal dollar -- whether it be for a bank or the $15 million Harlem Towers (which will be built mostly with non-white labor).

Sylvester thumbed through some notes the other day and disclosed that in fiscal year 1966 his office -- handling agency reports -- monitored 99,400 contracts, projects, sites and other operations of all kinds absorbing or using the federal buck.

By 1967, this had sprinted to 156,600. And this year the number rocketed to 219,500. Not all are probed in depth.

But at least 20 per cent are --meaning that Sylvester takes a sharp look into some 44,000 contracts, projects and sites.

Typical is Cleveland where, incidentally, millions have sunk into the unresurrected swamp of that city's urban renewal. There, late last year, he and his men summoned contractors.

The builders were told they would have to be aggressive. They would not get a contract unless they first came in with manning tables -- in other words: how many Negroes. No manning table, no contract.

The bidders came in. They had been helpless until the unions broke down and sifted in a few of the minorities.

But strangely enough, Sylvester says, despite the rumbles hiring no longer is the basic problem. The logjam has been smashed. General contractors need labor, want to train labor.

They need only the iron hand of local unions to relax. And the grip is easing.

"We are compliance-oriented now," says Sylvester. "On hiring, we find the complaints falling off. Now we hear mostly that people just don't have the opportunity to get promoted.

"The whole interest across the board in hard core job training has lessened. There are perpetuating infrastructers so a Negro worker has difficulty upgrading into better opportunity.

"This is the whole question of seniority for whites and Negroes and the matter of tests, and other qualifications which the minority workers must meet.

"A lot of people still find that, after being hired, they cannot win upgrading. This is more and more prevalant as against the old fight for hiring."

So this train of history is catapulting on to another horse-shoe curve.

The restlessness is in the mass production industries. The craft unions have cracked. It doesn't seem so, but the pressure of the government, the hot summers, the wartime scarcity, has sent the unions into the ghettos searching for young men with skills.

The building crafts Project Outreach is searching for apprentices -- in groups of eight or ten or even three or four -- in 48 cities now.

Now it is a matter of young Negroes saying they want to leapfrog into the professions, the white collar jobs, the arts, sciences and executive suites. They no more want to become plumbers, or carpenters, or bricklayers than do the lads of the Ivy League or the anonymous colleges.

This leaves the unskilled. They weaired of waiting and they flocked into the huge industrial complexes.

And they were hired by the scores of thousands. Look at Bethlehem Steel at Sparrows Point near Baltimore. There are 10,000 Negroes and about as many whites. In each classification white and black receive equal pay.

But some of them have organized the Steelworkers for Equality. They dispatch picket caravans hundreds of miles. They want upgrading. They want foreman's, supervisors' and higher job slots.

And Ed Sylvester's office is turning to the mass production industries. He's giving the big plants the same treatment he gave the construction people.

It's a new era. It's more pervasive. It's later than you think.

It may well be that sex may have to wait -- first things first.

DREW PEARSON SAYS: Powell conviction will worsen race relations; some House members favor force to release Pueblo crew; House Appropriations may see light of day

WASHINGTON -- The hand of fate seems to be closing in on ex-Rep. Adam Clayton Powell, and the results are not going to be good either for him or for race relations in the United States.

For more than three months a Grand Jury has been sifting evidence regarding the handsome Harlem Globe-Trotter, one-time chairman of the House Education and Labor Committee. Several small truckloads of documents have been sent down to the Grand Jury from the Clerk of the House of Representatives showing Powell's vouchers, his payroll, and his canceled checks.

The most incriminating evidence against him is the fact that he cashed his wife's salary checks and used part of the funds for himself. His wife, Yvette Flores Powell, then living in Puerto Rico, testified that she never received the checks; they were deposited by her husband -- even after she and Powell were estranged.

This is an escapable kickback.

In a previous case involving charges brought by this column, Rep. Ernest Bramblett, R-Calif., was convicted of taking kickbacks from his employees. He appealed, and the case went up to the Supreme Court of the United States, where the conviction was affirmed. Bramblett had sued this column for exposing his kickbacks, but when convicted dropped the suit.

In another case, Rep. Parnell Thomas, R-N.J., then chairman of the House Un-American Activities Committee, was exposed by this column for taking kickbacks from his secretaries. He was prosecuted, pleaded guilty, and went to jail.

Thus, it is well established that kickbacks are a criminal offense.

What must inevitably embarrass the justice department and the Johnson administration, if Powell is convicted, is the fact that he, a Negro, has already been expelled from the house of representatives, whereas Sen. Tom Dodd, D-Conn., a white man, was merely censured by the senate. If, added to this, Powell is convicted while Dodd and other white congressmen guilty of conflicts of interest are not, it will add to Negro resentment throughout the United States.

There has been a haphazard investigation of Dodd's finances, but it's reported the FBI did only a very spotty job, and left uninvestigated such conflicts of interest as Dodd's plea on behalf of real estate developer Tom Frouge to change the national park ban near the Golden Gate at San Francisco so as to permit Frouge to erect a high-rise apartment. Dodd acted as Frouge's attorney in making representations to Secretary of the Interior Stewart Udall and then governor of California Edmund G. (Pat) Brown. For a senator to take a case against the federal government, which pays him, hitherto has been interpreted as a criminal offense.

TOUGH PUEBLO TALK

While Secretary Dean Rusk was briefing a house group on negoations for the return of the Pueblo and its crew, Rep. Edwin Edwards, D-La., objected behind closed doors:

"Mr. Secretary, I come from an area where folks are rather forthright and simple in their approach. They are not very sophisticated. They want to know why we don't just go in there and get those men out."

"If we did that they might be corpses," replied Rusk grimly. "We want to bring them back alive."

Rep. Barber Conable, R-N.Y., was much blunter -- almost insulting -- during another closed-door meeting in the subject with under Secretary of State Nicholas Katzenbach. Katzenbach assured the house members that we were using "every diplomatic means available" for the return of the Pueblo's crewmen.

This wasn't enough for Conable and other Republicans, who made it plain by their questions that they preferred stronger action, even force, if North Korea stalled too long.

"It seems to me that you should be ready to take more direct action," said Conable, "if you really cared about those 83 men."

Then Katzembach's face flushed with anger, but before he could reply Rep. Jim Wright, D-Tex., intervened:

"I don't think that remark should go unchallenged. We all care very much, of course. At the same time, we should make no rash moves which might endanger the lives of the crewmen."

OPEN HEARINGS

At a recent White House reception Rep. George Mahon of Texas, powerful chairman of the house appropriations committee, put his arm around the shoulder of Rep. Charles Joelson of New Jersey, who had said openly what most house members feel - that the house appropriations committee should do away with secret hearings and other archaic undemocratic procedures.

"No hard feelings," said the congressman from Texas to the congressman from New Jersey.

So it looks as if the committee might make some important reforms, including an agreement to hold open hearings -- as the senate appropriations committee has been doing for a number of years.

MRS. JACK FISCHER, YORK, PA. -- The disagreement between Attorney General Ramsey Clark and J. Edgar Hoover over the crime - in - the - streets bill revolves chiefly around the provision for the training of all police forces by the FBI. Hoover's agents have been secretly lobbying on the hill for this provision, despite the fact that the Attorney General, head of th justice department, feels that the job would be too time consuming and would affect the efficiency of the bureau. Hoover incidentally has not played ball with any Attorney General for about 10 years.

NEW YORK (AP) - Hollywood sex symbols almost always weary of being mere sex symbols, profitable though their jobs may be.

After appearing on some 400 magazine covers, Raquel Welch, who has received one of the biggest glamor girl buildups since Marilyn Monroe and Jayne Mansfield, has reached this point.

"Being thought of as nothing but a glamor girl is my biggest hate right now," said the shapely, brown-haired star. "It seems to be synonymous with being empty headed."

Miss Welch's pert head is full of canniness. With the skilled aid of her personal manager and second husband, Pat Curtis, a former press agent, her career was launched with all the methodical spontaneity with which a new filter type cigarette is introduced.

The onetime San Diego beauty queen in three years has wowed Europe, made nine movies, and soon will appear with Frank Sinatra in "Lady in Cement."

In her earlier pictures-they range from "Fantastic Voyage," and "One Million Years B. C." to "Bedazzled" and "Bandelero" - she has worked with such leading men as Marcello Mastroianni, James Stewart and Dean Martin. Naturally a girl who has done that no longer has to ride home from the studio on a bus.

"I'm well off," Raquel conceded. "But up to now my pictures have been more lightweight than profound. I'd like to change my image.

"My reception heretofore has been based on glamor, physical appearance and comedy. Now I like to show I have other dimensions."

The dimensions that have contributed largely to her present fame can be summarized: 37-221/2 - 35 1/2.

Raquel draws a careful distinction between her own success and that of Jayne Mansfield and Marilyn Monroe.

"Jayne's build-up was bossom-oriented and Marilyn posed in the nude, which I have never done," she remarked carefully. "My build-up was based on the fact I had a certain figure.

I'm grateful for that build-up because it was a launching pad for me. But it is not something personally satisfying or something I want to foster as the basis of my career."

She has a deep sympathy for Marilyn Monroe, who she feels was destroyed by the conflict between her private woes and her career obligations. She is determined to avoid any such emotional disaster herself.

POOR CHARLIE SAYS!

There isn't much a Sikeston resident can say about the narrow margin by which Morehouse school district patrons voted in favor of annexation with Sikeston's school district except "welcome."

The Sikeston school board's approval of the consolidation is expected to be a mere formality.

To Morehouse residents we would add only the final words of hope they will be happy with the new school arrangements.

Because most persons are influenced strongly by their pocketbook interest, the annexation proposal obviously was controversial.

For one thing it means an increase in taxes.

This is never welcomed by anyone and especially by those who have no children in school.

For many Morehouse residents the choice may have seemed to be between two undesirable alternatives --annexation into an enlarged New Madrid county district having a more distant high school or with nearby Sikeston.

Because communities like to retain control of their schools neither proposal was appealing to many residents.

It is a reasonable expectation that if the annexation with the Sikeston district is consummated, the Morehouse school facilities will continue to be used.

It is also likely that the Morehouse high school would be merged into the Sikeston system because of the more extensive curriculum that the larger high school can offer students.

Since a better education is the goal of all parents for their children, Morehouse residents with high school age boys and girls should not be displeased with the consolidation.

The annexation may have a desirable economic effect for property owners in Morehouse. It will mean insofar as school is concerned that the Morehouse resident can obtain the same education for his children that is offered in Sikeston. This may increase demand for real estate in Morehouse and the prices buyers are willing to pay for it.

For those parents, who are now sending their children to the schools in Sikeston, the annexation means that they no longer must pay tuition. This could reduce their school costs.

Dear Charlie:

I haven't yet seen in the Standard this story--

The little boy came home from school and says to his father, "Daddy, do you have sex relations?"

After stuttering a bit, the father admits he has. Then the little boy turns to his mother and says, "Mommy, do you have sex relations?" And she tells him she does.

Then the little man inquired, "Why don't they come to see us?"

RIESEL AHEAD ON ROCKEFELLER, GARBAGE, A.D.A., AND NEGRO STORIES

Day after day, when our columnist Victor Riesel is not atop the news, he's days, even weeks ahead of it, as it breaks in front-page headlines and long wire service stories.

On Nov. 15, Riesel filed one of the most significant stories to break on the racial front. At that time Riesel wrote that: "Labor's skilled trade unions (will) open doors wide to Negroes of all ghettos."

Three months later, on Feb. 14, the presidents of 18 building and construction trades unions met in Bal Harbour, Fla., and pledged, word for word, action by action, to do exactly as Riesel had predicted. The story hit many a front page and will make news for a long time.

Our columnist named the three labor leaders--Lou Stulberg, I. W. Abel and Joe Beirne -- who would resign, when, and for what reasons. This story broke, corroborating Riesel word for word, three months later on Feb. 13. Again the front pages backed up Riesel.

And it was Victory Riesel whose long series of exclusive columns on the intimate relations between New York Gov. Nelson Rockefeller and New York labor leaders provided the only authentic background of the big city's garbage revolt. For two years now, Riesel has reported the conversations, the secret meetings, the confidential cooperation between Mr. Rockefeller and the labor leaders to whose rescue he came during the past week.

Only in Riesel's column were the names of the labor men -- such as the sanitation union's president John DeLury, leader of the street cleaners strike which created all the havoc -- disclosed.

As long ago as last Sept. 25, Riesel reported that New York state courts would set a precedent by depriving a municipal service union of its dues checkoff rights as punishment for violation of the no-strike law.

Months later, the striking New York teachers union was thus punished. On Feb. 14, 1968, the striking garbage workers also were similarly punished. State, county and municipal officials everywhere are now watching developments in New York State as a possible solution to civil service employes strikes.

These are but a few of the reporting highlights of Riesel coverage.

Day after day, the inside story, the ahead-of-the-news story, the interpretive stories on a most significant front -- labor -- are in his column.

Mr. Tyson also cautions, "that inflationary policies are hurting both private and public pensions. Public policies are contributing to demand-pull and cost-push-inflation--inflation via nondefense expenditure acceleration and excessive expansion of the money supply, via wage-pushes far beyond productivity and tax increases further pyramiding costs."

FROM WASHINGTON TO JOHNSON

The American people should realize that the total ($186.1 billion budget) is as much money spent by one President in a single year as was spent by all 32 Presidents from George Washington, starting in 1789, through half of the third term of Franklin D. Roosevelt in 1942. That's 153 years, and includes all the wars through the first year of World War II.

When you try to visualize all those dollars, you wonder where they come from. The answer is--if Mr. Johnson can get a tax increase--from the pockets of the American people and out of the treasuries of American business, except for 8 billions to be borrowed.

This all means that, in eight years under Presidents Kennedy and Johnson, spending by the federal government will have risen -- in total -- from just under 100 billion dollars to 186 billion, a rise not far from 90 per cent.

This is an election year -- and need we say more!

The Citizens Public Expenditure Survey, Inc. of New York has stated: "If your income is to be reduced by a tax increase to fight inflation, then government has a responsibility to reduce its nondefense spending by an equal amount. Spending by government is just as inflationary as spending by consumers. The prices you pay for the things you want do not necessarily come down. Instead, less of those things are produced because the production effort is shifted to meeting the demand for the things government is spending money for. . . You still have a choice, but the choice won't be yours for long unless you let your representatives in government know where you stand right now on further tax increases -- federal, state and local."

UP TO THE PEOPLE

"I will guarantee you that when the headlines are printed following the submission of the President's budget. . . the figures referred to will be most confusing to those who try to understand what the real picture is." Those words were spoken months ago by the chairman of the Appropriations Committee, Representative George H. Mahon of the U.S. House of Representatives. Many will now consider his remark the understatement of the year.

The deficit estimates vary by many billions. The only thing that is clear is that there will be a huge deficit. This means that in coming months the spectre of inflation will threaten the most carefully planned family budgets all across the land.

What is the answer to inflation? Representative Mahon expresses it in a few words. "The ultimate answer is only partly in Congress; it is only partly in the White House. More importantly, control of public spending rests with the people who create public sentiment and elect officials of government. . . Congress is not going to practice restraint unless the message comes through loud and clear from the people generally." These are strong words and well deserved in the area of nondefense spending.

Barring an unforeseen buying spree by consumers, production of consumer goods will undoubtedly slump off the first quarter of this year, the research staff of the National Federation of Independent Business reports.

With the first report in on the December respondents to the continuous field survey, no appreciable rise in inventory build up is noted for that month. In fact, it dropped from 24 per cent in October to 23 per cent in December, just slightly higher than 22 per cent in November.

Inasmuch as interest rates being charged independent firms nationally average close to 7 per cent, the entire year was marked by a reluctance to borrow to build inventory more than absolutely necessary to meet the demands of the public.

In addition, with some 45 states imposing inventory taxes on goods held in stock, resistance by wholesalers and retailers to talking shipments from factories will be stiffened. This is due to the fact that in most of these states the tax rates have been increased.

Whether or not a slackening demand for consumer goods will be reflected in factory employment is problematical, it is felt, as further escalation of the Vietnam war could result in the manpower being further employed in the production of war goods.

VIET CONG WANTS COALITION

A captured Viet Cong document reveals that communists in Vietnam would welcome the establishment of a coalition government, which they would use as a vehicle to gain complete power in that country.

In the document the communists admit that they are unable to win a total military victory in Vietnam. They therefore plan to seek a coalition government, through which they could gradually gain control of South Vietnam.

The Viet Cong say they are not strong enough now to deal the U. S. and South Vietnam a lethal blow. They believe a coalition government will be advantagious to their revolutionary goals. It would not matter to the Viet Cong if there were a few non-communist notables at the top, but the National Liberation Front's political program must be followed.

The document states that the immediate goal of a coalition government is a "neutral independent, national democratic regime progressing toward socialism." The long-range goal remains the creation of a "Socialist" regime, which means communist control of the entire country.

The Viet Cong add that their party will exercise over-all control over the coalition, and if their agents are firmly established and they properly carry out the tactics of the Front, their party will lead the revolution to their final objective.

Some U. S. Senators and Congressmen have stated that they favor a coalition government as a means of ending the war in Vietnam. It is obvious that the Viet Cong also favor a coalition government, because it would be the easiest route to political power. The fact remains that for those who love freedom there is no alternative to victory over the communist aggressors. HLH

Charles Joelson of New Jersey, who had said openly what most house members feel - that the house appropriations committee should do away with secret hearings and other archaic undemocratic procedures.

"No hard feelings," said the congressman from Texas to the congressman from New Jersey.

So it looks as if the committee might make some important reforms, including an agreement to hold open hearings -- as the senate appropriations committee has been doing for a number of years.

MAIL BAG

MRS. JACK FISCHER, YORK, PA. -- The disagreement between Attorney General Ramsey Clark and J. Edgar Hoover over the crime - in - the - streets bill revolves chiefly around the provision for the training of all police forces by the FBI. Hoover's agents have been secretly lobbying on the hill for this provision, despite the fact that the Attorney General, head of th justice department, feels that the job would be too time consuming and would affect the efficiency of the bureau. Hoover incidentally has not played ball with any Attorney General for about 10 years.

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

NEGROES' NEW FRONT

Launch Attack For Status In Mass Industries

Washington, D. C.: -- Soon it will become the sacred trust of one man in the governmental labyrinth to make certain that employers become aggressive about sex.

Those who hire will have to take positive action. It is the wish of Lyndon Johnson. It is written in an executive order. Come Oct. 1, no "boss," no corporation, no agency will be able to man a project without actively surveying the market to see if he can't do some of the manning with women.

It's an awesome assignment, but the chap who sighs wearily over implementing the final section of the presidential directive, Executive Order 11246, has been through the fire and believes he can survive.

Frequently, that fire has been hell for the man in charge, Ed Sylvester, director of the Labor Dept's Office of Federal Contract Compliance (OFCC).

For the moment he can give it only his spare time, since his headquarters now must monitor almost $100 billion worth of construction and the usage of tens of billions of our federal money.

It is he and his small staff who will see to it that the 8,500 locals of the building and construction trades unions obey the eloquent dictum of their 18 international presidents -- and open their doors, membership rosters, apprenticeship schools and job referral systems to men of all races, colors and creeds. He has until fall to add the word sex.

Even in these days of escalation, his headquarters makes sophisticated computers seem like electronic tortoises. Somehow, working with every government agency, the OFCC must trace every federal dollar -- whether it be for a bank or the $15 million Harlem Towers (which will be built mostly with non-white labor).

Sylvester thumbed through some notes the other day and disclosed that in fiscal year 1966 his office -- handling agency reports -- monitored 99,400 contracts, projects, sites and other operations of all kinds absorbing or using the federal buck.

By 1967, this had sprinted to 156,600. And this year the number rocketed to 219,500. Not all are probed in depth.

But at least 20 per cent are --meaning that Sylvester takes a sharp look into some 44,000 contracts, projects and sites.

Typical is Cleveland where, incidentally, millions have sunk into the unresurrected swamp of that city's urban renewal. There, late last year, he and his men summoned contractors.

The builders were told they would have to be aggressive. They would not get a contract unless they first came in with manning tables -- in other words: how many Negroes. No manning table, no contract.

The bidders came in. They had been helpless until the unions broke down and sifted in a few of the minorities.

But strangely enough, Sylvester says, despite the rumbles hiring no longer is the basic problem. The logjam has been smashed. General contractors need labor, want to train labor.

They need only the iron hand of local unions to relax. And the grip is easing.

"We are compliance-oriented now," says Sylvester. "On hiring, we find the complaints falling off. Now we hear mostly that people just don't have the opportunity to get promoted.

"The whole interest across the board in hard core job training has lessened. There are perpetuating infrastructers so a Negro worker has difficulty upgrading into better opportunity.

"This is the whole question of seniority for whites and Negroes and the matter of tests, and other qualifications which the minority workers must meet.

"A lot of people still find that, after being hired, they cannot win upgrading. This is more and more prevalant as against the old fight for hiring."

So this train of history is catapulting on to another horseshoe curve.

The restlessness is in the mass production industries. The craft unions have cracked. It doesn't seem so, but the pressure of the government, the hot summers, the wartime scarcity, has sent the unions into the ghettos searching for young men with skills.

The building crafts Project Outreach is searching for apprentices -- in groups of eight or ten or even three or four -- in 48 cities now.

Now it is a matter of young Negroes saying they want to leapfrog into the professions, the white collar jobs, the arts, sciences and executive suites. They no more want to become plumbers, or carpenters, or bricklayers than do the lads of the Ivy League or the anonymous colleges.

This leaves the unskilled. They weaired of waiting and they flocked into the huge industrial complexes.

And they were hired by the scores of thousands. Look at Bethlehem Steel at Sparrows Point near Baltimore. There are 10,000 Negroes and about as many whites. In each classification white and black receive equal pay.

But some of them have organized the Steelworkers for Equality. They dispatch picket caravans hundreds of miles. They want upgrading. They want foreman's, supervisors' and higher job slots.

And Ed Sylvester's office is turning to the mass production industries. He's giving the big plants the same treatment he gave the construction people.

It's a new era. It's more pervasive. It's later than you think.

It may well be that sex may have to wait -- first things first.

AGE DISCRIMINATION OUTLAWED

CHICAGO (AP) One of the highlights in the 1967 labor year was the protection given against age discrimination for workers from 40 to 65.

Commerce Clearing House said a new law sent by Congress to the President for signature added age to race, creed, color, sex and national origin as prohibited job qualification factors.

The Age Discrimination in Employment Act covers certain employers, employment agencies and labor unions. It applies only to those in the 40 to 65-year age bracket.

It was designed to give a large body of Americans a fair chance to secure employment on the basis of their qualifications regardless of age.

Leader of Christian Church to Speak Sunday

Mrs. Joseph M. Smith of Indianapolis, one of the national leaders in the Christian church, will speak at First Christian church at 6 p.m. Sunday. She and Charles B. Barr, district minister of the Christian church in district ten, are visiting all of the Christian churches of the district this week to present the challenge of the world wide program of the church.

Mrs. Smith, the former Winnifred Watson, is a former missionary to China and the Philippines. She served there under the United Christian Missionary Society, a major agency of the Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ.

Her husband is executive secretary of the East Asia Department of the UCMS, a position he assumed on July 1, 1964. Before that, he was associate professor of missions and history of religion at Christian Theological Seminary in Indianapolis.

An ordianed minister, Mrs. Smith is a past vice-president of the International Convention of Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ) and has served on the Board of Managers and Board of Trustees of the UCMS.

She has served three years as chairman of the Advisory Committee of the International Convention's Office of Interpretation.

Soon after the Smiths arrived in China in 1940, the conflict between China and Japan became more aggressive and they were transferred to the Philippines. They were placed in a Japanese internment camp after the United States entered the war and were held there until 1945. After recuperation and more study they returned to China to do evangelistic and rural work. But after only a year the invasion of the Communists forced Mrs. Smith and her two sons to return home. Smith followed a year later.

Mrs. Smith directed the daily Vacation Bible School at Euclid Avenue Christian Church, Lynchburg, Va.; was director of the high school department and assistant director of Religious Drama in the University Christian Church, Seattle, Wash.; worked in settlement houses in Chicago, Ill., and New Haven, Conn.; directed social and recreational activities among migrant workers in Connecticut, and was director of student work in the First Christian Church, Columbia.

A native of Lexington, Ky., Mrs. Smith received the bachelor of arts degree from Lynchburg, Va., College and her masters degree from Chicago Theological Seminary. She also has studied at Yale Divinity School, New Haven, Conn., and Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.

She and Dr. Smith have three children, Frederick Watson, Douglas Warren, and Barbara Ellen.

The POWER of FAITH By WOODI ISHMAEL

The Rev. Robert G. Bratcher, special translation secretary with the American Bible Society, is one of three thousand people in the world who devote most of their time to translating the scriptures into nearly all languages and dialects, and to interpreting it better in English.

Dr. Bratcher's experiences have convinced him of the need for a more exact understanding of the New Testament. A Navy chaplain during World War II, a visiting professor of New Testament Interpretation at the Southern Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky., and a professor of New Testament and dean at the South Brazil Baptist Theological Seminary in Rio de Janeiro, his experiences have given him the background and conviction for one of his most important translations, "The New Testament in Today's English."

Dr. Bratcher explains that his "object in translating the New Testament was to convey the meaning of the text in such a way that whoever is able to read English can understand the New Testament regardless of his cultural background or degree of Christian experience and training."

He continues, "I tried to write as I believe the evangelists and apostles would if they were writing in English today about the same matters of people who have little or no knowledge of the Christian message."

Through communication comes communion.

Leader of Christian Church to Speak Sunday

Mrs. Joseph M. Smith of Indianapolis, one of the national leaders in the Christian church, will speak at First Christian church at 6 p.m. Sunday. She and Charles B. Barr, district minister of the Christian church in district ten, are visiting all of the Christian churches of the district this week to present the challenge of the world wide program of the church.

Mrs. Smith, the former Winnifred Watson, is a former missionary to China and the Philippines. She served there under the United Christian Missionary Society, a major agency of the Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ.

Her husband is executive secretary of the East Asia Department of the UCMS, a position he assumed on July 1, 1964. Before that, he was associate professor of missions and history of religion at Christian Theological Seminary in Indianapolis.

An ordianed minister, Mrs. Smith is a past vice-president of the International Convention of Christian Churches (Disciples of Christ) and has served on the Board of Managers and Board of Trustees of the UCMS.

She has served three years as chairman of the Advisory Committee of the International Convention's Office of Interpretation.

Soon after the Smiths arrived in China in 1940, the conflict between China and Japan became more aggressive and they were transferred to the Philippines. They were placed in a Japanese internment camp after the United States entered the war and were held there until 1945.

After recuperation and more study they returned to China to do evangelistic and rural work. But after only a year the invasion of the Communists forced Mrs. Smith and her two sons to return home. Smith followed a year later.

Mrs. Smith directed the daily Vacation Bible School at Euclid Avenue Christian Church, Lynchburg, Va.; was director of the high school department and assistant director of Religious Drama in the University Christian Church, Seattle, Wash.; worked in settlement houses in Chicago, Ill., and New Haven, Conn.; directed social and recreational activities among migrant workers in Connecticut, and was director of student work in the First Christian Church, Columbia.

A native of Lexington, Ky., Mrs. Smith received the bachelor of arts degree from Lynchburg, Va., College and her masters degree from Chicago Theological Seminary. She also has studied at Yale Divinity School, New Haven, Conn., and Northwestern University, Evanston, Ill.

She and Dr. Smith have three children, Frederick Watson, Douglas Warren, and Barbara Ellen.

The POWER of FAITH

By WOODI ISHMAEL

The Rev. Robert G. Bratcher, special translation secretary with the American Bible Society, is one of three thousand people in the world who devote most of their time to translating the scriptures into nearly all languages and dialects, and to interpreting it better in English.

Dr. Bratcher's experiences have convinced him of the need for a more exact understanding of the New Testament. A Navy chaplain during World War II, a visiting professor of New Testament Interpretation at the Southern Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky., and a professor of New Testament and dean at the South Brazil Baptist Theological Seminary in Rio de Janeiro, his experiences have given him the background and conviction for one of his most important translations, "The New Testament in Today's English."

Dr. Bratcher explains that his "object in translating the New Testament was to convey the meaning of the text in such a way that whoever is able to read English can understand the New Testament regardless of his cultural background or degree of Christian experience and training."

He continues, "I tried to write as I believe the evangelists and apostles would if they were writing in English today about the same matters of people who have little or no knowledge of the Christian message."

Through communication comes communion.

Merger Speed Up Needed

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Pro football commissioner Pet Rozelle is expected to name committees to speed the actual merger of the American and National Football Leagues in 1970 at today's final sessions of the annual meetings of the two leagues.

The committees are to consider such factors as television, playing rules, schedule, realignment, league organization, post season games and sites.

Both leagues have been concerned largely with internal matters in their meetings but the common problems of the ultimate merger must be resolved within the next two years.

Art Modell, president of the NFL and Cleveland Browns' owner, undoubtedly will be named to another term by the owners. Modell said Thursday he expected the NFL to continue the four divisional setup in 1968 and 1969. However, the actual structure of the league in '69 still has to be determined.

"There is strong sentiment to continue in 1969 along the same lines as 1968," Modell said. "It would require a unanimous vote to change the alignment for '68."

Under the rules adopted a year ago, the New York Giants shift from the Century Division to the Capitol Division this season, changing places with New Orleans.

Modell, in his role as owner of the Cleveland Browns, said he expected to meet with Leroy Kelly, his unsigned running back, and hoped to sign him next week. Kelly played out his option last season and thus became free to sign with any club.

Daytona 500 Set Sunday

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The fastest stock car racing field of all time battles through a pair of 125-mile events today with potential danger riding their sleek plastic skins and extra wide tires.

No one knows how they will fare at the greatly increased speeds, but for the $200,000 prize money dangling at the end of Sunday's 10th annual Daytona 500, the drivers will go their fastest. Today's finish determines Sunday's start, the first race finishers lining up on the inside and second race finishers on the outside.

An eight man Ford-Mercury factory team headed by pole sitter Cale Yarborough of Charlotte, N.C., and a Plymouth Road Runner in the hands of Grand National champion Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C., should produce the winners today and Sunday unless the unprecedented speeds bring a repeat of the 1961 rash of accidents in prelimiary races.

Jim Lonborg Recovery Slow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baseball life begins at 40 this season for Elroy Face and Stu Miller, but neither veteran relief pitcher was feeling too chipper today.

Face, longtime Pittsburgh bullpen ace, was grounded Thursday by an antibiotics reaction that has bugged him since the Pirates opened their spring camp at Fort Myers, Fla., four days ago.

Miller, meanwhile, signed his 1968 contract with Baltimore — and took a reported $5,000 pay cut from his $40,000-plus salary of last season.

Jim Lonborg, hard-luck pitching ace of Boston's American League champs, also received a setback when it was determined he isn't recovering from recent knee surgery as quickly as had been expected. The Cy Young Award winner underwent an operation last Dec. 27 to repair torn knee ligaments suffered in a skiing mishap.

The Red Sox announced the signing of five 1967 standouts — infielders George Scott, Rico Petrocelli, Jerry Adair and Dalton Jones, and relief pitcher John Wyatt — leaving three players outside the fold. All five signees received pay raises.

At Tampa, Fla., however, Cincinnati batterymen began workouts with four starting pitchers — Jim Maloney, Milt Pappas, Mel Queen and Gary Nolan — among the missing.

Other signees included infielder Tony Perez, Reds; pitcher Dick Farrell, Phillies; infielder Felix Millan, Braves; infielder Tim Cullen, White Sox, and pitcher Jim Ollum, Twins.

Minnesota southpaw Jim Kaat, who tore ligaments in his pitching arm on the next-to-last day of the 1967 season, threw for 10 minutes at the Twins' Orlando, Fla., camp and said his elbow felt tight.

And Carl Yastrzemski, the AL's Most Valuable Player last year, got left at the gate. The Red Sox's slugger and his family arrived at Boston's Logan Airport an hour early for a 10 a.m., EST, flight to the team's Winter Haven, Fla., base — and then was told there was no room for him on the plane.

The Yastrzemskis waited three hours for a later flight and finally arrived in Winter Haven Thursday afternoon — still well ahead of Yaz' March 1 reporting date.

Finally. . .we have found a little time to do a little side work. . .and as we look up with just wonder if there's any chance of us hitting a perfect night.

Our eyes have been watching the basketball action around the SEMO area this week. ..so we have a better knowledge of how certain teams are playing.

This is the next to last night for what's left of the class S and M schools. ..so anything can happen. . .especially with a team with all seniors. . .but. . .no one has that so it's just going to be one of those rough and rugged nights for all concerned.

These eight teams remaining in the tournament's are the cream of the crop in Southeast Missouri in their respective class.

Those looking over my shoulder have yelled. .."you've stalled long enough". ..I guess we have so here goes all of our light bulbs. ..crystal balls. . .eight balls. . .mystic pipes and whatever we can find lying around loose into a big pot of boiling water. ..here it comes. . .tonight's predictions:

No better place than to start at Bloomfield, where the finals will be played.

Bloomfield
Consolation

Neelyville vs. Richland -- Undoubtedly both teams have lost a little of their desire. . .after heartbreaking losses in last night's semifinal play. . .One fan remarked after the game. . . "We wonder if enough boys from either team will show up for the game". ..they will and that's just what it will be a great game. . .Neelyville 72, Richland 58.

Championship

Dexter vs. Doniphan --- Doniphan has shaken its tournament jinx in the Bloomfield gym and has fired past two tough opponents to reach their present position. Dexter always gets up for the big ones and tonight's game is just that. ..BIG ONE. . .Dexter has the defense to stop the Dons' scoring ace. ..Mike Duncan and have the scoring punch in Jeff Cox, Harlan Guethle and Darrell Dixon to move into state play. Dexter 70, Doniphan 63.

Gideon
Semi-finals

Holcomb vs. Hayti North -- Many felt that the defending tournament champion. . .Hayti North. . .would fail to make the grade for the semifinals. ..but it's here and is meeting the top seeded Hornets. Both have been playing their best in the tournament and will battle down to the wire. Who's your pick. . .I'll take Holcomb. Holcomb 67, Hayti North 60.

North Pemiscot vs. South Pemiscot -- Both have good ball clubs and have got the desire along with it. ..They have met twice and have split games with both taking wins by the identical number of points. Tonight's contest will be the tie breaker and we feel that the Northerners will do it again. . .Those Yankee Mustangs. North Pemiscot 64, South Pemiscot 61.

Clarkton
Semi-finals

Cooter vs. Bell City --- This is where Cinderella (Cooter) loses her slipper. ..That Bell City ball club has to be recognized as a contender for the title...They'll walk over the upstart Wildcats into the finals where they aim at the title. .. I'll tell you more about that tomorrow. Bell City 79, Cooter 57.

Delta vs. Howardville -- Time out. ..

Boy what a game. ..Davids vs. Golieths. . .with the later referring to the tall Howardville ball club and the other to the small but tough Delta unit. This is where offensive meets defense. . .Can either take the other? . . .We think yes and here's our surprising call. . .Delta 88, Howardville 83. . .not too much defense.

Illmo-Scott City

Prognosticators note: Please have a moment of deep meditation for us. . .we need it as we look into our "smart pot" . . .Help.

Oran vs. Scott County Central ---- Would you believe five overtime periods. . .six minute rest period before the sixth and then the electricity going off. ..I would. This game means more to each ball club than does next week's meals. . .It will settle the battle of the Braves and Eagles as each have lost to the other twice this season. ..We feel the key to this test will be the playing condition of the Braves. . .Lee Stevens. . It'll be close for three quarters. ..the fourth we can't see. .. but we'll take a stab at the action. Oran 75, Scott Central 67.

Matthews vs. Notre Dame --- Can we pass??? NO. ..The Pirates have their work cut out for them as they did last season. . in the final game of the I-SC tournament of which the Bulldogs won and then proceeded into the state tournament where they finished third. . .No doubt the gym will be full as it was last year. ..and no doubt both teams are up for the game. ..Here's how it looks from here. ..Matthews will have to play a tough defense against the bigger Dog crew while the Dogs will have to do the same. ..The win may lie in the rebounding department. . .both have excellent jumpers. Matthews 82, Notre Dame 76.

See you tonight. . . in the line of Illmo - Scott City. . .Doors open at 5 p.m.

Dons Shake Jinx; Dexter In Finals

BLOOMFIELD - Doniphan has shaken off its Bloomfield basketball tournament jinx and proved that with a come-from-behind 70-68 victory over the top seeded Richland Rebels last night in the semifinal round opening match.

Dexter followed suit by knocking off second Neelyville, 70-63.

The losers, Richland and Neelyville, open tonight's final night of class M regional tournament play with a 7 p.m. consolation match. Then will come the big game at 8:30 p.m. as the third and fourth seeded units fight for the title.

Last night's loss by the Rebels had many fans mumbling to themselves and asking questions why Richland's first team failed to see but limited action during the second half.

Richland started hot. It hit its first four field goal attempts. It pulled the first four defensive rebounds and stopped the Rebs scoring through the first two minutes. It surged out into an 11-point lead at one time before it hit its earlier season rut. . . mistakes.

Charles Pardon's Rebels, pressing early in the game fell back into a half court man to man defense that allowed the Dons to come down and set up. When they did the one man show of Mike Duncan quickly took over. Before the second quarter was half over, he had shot the Dons into a tie, 27-27. Seconds later they took the lead for the first time as Larry Jackson dropped in a free throw.

Doniphan held that one point lead at the half, 37-36, but was threatened with the loss of star center Duncan, who had drawn four first half fouls.

While setting out four of the 16 minutes in the first half, Duncan's squad was able to hold on, although missing the scoring of the ace, who had 17 points at his departure.

Dean Williamson was the Rebs' big first half gun, firing in 14 points, but he failed to see action during the second half as coach Pardon went with his second team and a few reserves.

Richland's second platoon overcame the first half Doniphan lead and fired out into a 58-54 lead at the end of three. The Dons chances of overtaking the Rebs seemed dim as they lost its star guard, Jackson, with 5:06 left in the period.

Playing with two reserves, three starters and Duncan with four personal fouls, Doniphan began to fire out after they lost their other starting guard, John Shemwell, on fouls.

Richland was leading when the last of the starting guards went out but Duncan started his one man show and pushed the Dons into a 68-68 deadlock with 1:07 remaining.

The Rebs couldn't do anything right and when they started to bring the ball upcourt against the Dons press. . . they did something wrong each time.

Both teams played the last minute and seven seconds on the Dons end of the floor. Doniphan controlled the ball but was tied with 28 seconds remaining as David Knight and Rick Fowler jumped for the ball. The tip went to Richland, who lost it when one of the guards kicked it to a Doniphan player, who in turn fired down to Duncan, who got fouled and sank a pair of free throws on a one and one situation for the lead.

Duncan fired in 36 points for the night, marking 66 for two tournament games. He hit 17 of 20 free throws.

A shot by Richland's Willie Jones with one second left fell off the rim as the horn sounded.

Dexter beat the Neelyville Tigers at their own game last night . . . rebounding.

The Bearcats blocked out the big rebounding trio of the Tigers and grabbed the ball for themselves as they took an early lead and played superb defense.

Darrell Dixon's defensive work and free throw accuracy was big part of the Bearcats' victory as the six foot senior held Neelyville's high scoring guard, Mark Parker, to six points, four of them coming on fast break layins.

Jeff Cox was the big scoring gun for the Cats, who fired in 21 points.

Dexter won the game at the charity line, netting 28 of 34 attempts while Neelyville won the battle from the field 27-21 but lost 28-9 at the line.

Neelyville held a half time lead of 32-31 on a late shot by Lee Stone, but that was the only time it led as Dexter fired back out front in the last half.

BRATTLEBORO, Vt. (AP) — Bob Gray, a member of the U.S. Olympic ski team from Putney, Vt., survived near-zero weather, a tricky course and a field of 422 Thursday, winning the Brattleboro Winter Carnival's sixth annual George Washington cross country race.

Gray, a three-time winner of the event, covered the 5.7-mile course over old stage coach roads and backwoods trails in 35 minutes, 55 seconds. Raimo Ahti of Fitchburg, Mass., was second in the bulky field of entrants from 6 to 61 years old.

NEWTON, Mass. (AP) — John J. Kelley, veteran marathon runner from Connecticut, won the 19¼-mile Hopkinton to Newton road race Thursday, covering the course in one hour, 48 minutss, 40 seconds.

Rick Bayko of Newburyport, Mass., was second in the field of 62. Bayko was timed in 1:52.02.

Alcindor's Match Found In West

MILL CREEK, Okla. (AP) — When Kay Roberson plays basketball with the Mill Creek High School girls' team, many of the town's 290 people turn out to watch.

Kay is a girl who has built a local reputation with her point-making prowess. Lwst Feb. 9 she scored 80 points in one game.

Coach Ray Dodd pulled her out after the third period because he didn't want to run up the score. Mill Creek won 97-30.

Last year, Kay scored 70 points in a single contest.

No one seems to know for sure what the record is for the most points by girls in one game but Dodd said, "If we looked into it, she might even hold the national record. . ."

Dodd said his super-star's average is 41.6 points per game but he never allows her to play a full game.

The Mill Creek squad has 23-4 record and kay wants to get to the state tournament.

"Last year we got beat in the finals of the regionals, but this season I think we might have a real good chance to go to state," she said. "I have never played in a state tournament before."

In her freshman year, Kay had an average of about 25 points per game, moved up to 30 points in her sophomore year and was at 38 points her junior year.

Dodd said the 5-foot-8 blonde senior is rated excellent in volleyball and softball.

She wants to attend college and hopes to be a girls' basketball coach after graduation as well as teach, do extension work and become involved in girls' physical education programs.

Dodd says she has received numerous scholarship offers and Kay says she may have to go outside the state since no Oklahoma college has a women's basketball team.

She is an honor student who Dodd thinks may, someday, be a member of N American Olympic squad.

Merger Speed Up Needed

By JACK HAND
Associated Press Sports Writer

NEW YORK (AP) — Pro football commissioner Pet Rozelle is expected to name committees to speed the actual merger of the American and National Football Leagues in 1970 at today's final sessions of the annual meetings of the two leagues.

The committees are to consider such factors as television, playing rules, schedule, realignment, league organization, post season games and sites.

Both leagues have been concerned largely with internal matters in their meetings but the common problems of the ultimate merger must be resolved within the next two years.

Art Modell, president of the NFL and Cleveland Browns' owner, undoubtedly will be named to another term by the owners. Modell said Thursday he expected the NFL to continue the four divisional setup in 1968 and 1969. However, the actual structure of the league in '69 still has to be determined.

"There is strong sentiment to continue in 1969 along the same lines as 1968," Modell said. "It would require a unanimous vote to change the alignment for '68."

Under the rules adopted a year ago, the New York Giants shift from the Century Division to the Capitol Division this season, changing places with New Orleans.

Modell, in his role as owner of the Cleveland Browns, said he expected to meet with Leroy Kelly, his unsigned running back, and hoped to sign him next week. Kelly played out his option last season and thus became free to sign with any club.

Daytona 500 Set Sunday

DAYTONA BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The fastest stock car racing field of all time battles through a pair of 125-mile events today with potential danger riding their sleek plastic skins and extra wide tires.

No one knows how they will fare at the greatly increased speeds, but for the $200,000 prize money dangling at the end of Sunday's 10th annual Daytona 500, the drivers will go their fastest. Today's finish determines Sunday's start, the first race finishers lining up on the inside and second race finishers on the outside.

An eight man Ford-Mercury factory team headed by pole sitter Cale Yarborough of Charlotte, N.C., and a Plymouth Road Runner in the hands of Grand National champion Richard Petty of Randleman, N.C., should produce the winners today and Sunday unless the unprecedented speeds bring a repeat of the 1961 rash of accidents in preliminary races.

Jim Lonborg Recovery Slow

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Baseball life begins at 40 this season for Elroy Face and Stu Miller, but neither veteran relief pitcher was feeling too chipper today.

Face, longtime Pittsburgh bullpen ace, was grounded Thursday by an antibiotics reaction that has bugged him since the Pirates opened their spring camp at Fort Myers, Fla., four days ago.

Miller, meanwhile, signed his 1968 contract with Baltimore — and took a reported $5,000 pay cut from his $40,000-plus salary of last season.

Jim Lonborg, hard-luck pitching ace of Boston's American League champs, also received a setback when it was determined he isn't recovering from recent knee surgery as quickly as had been expected. The Cy Young Award winner underwent an operation last Dec. 27 to repair torn knee ligaments suffered in a skiing mishap.

The Red Sox announced the signing of five 1967 standouts — infielders George Scott, Rico Petrocelli, Jerry Adair and Dalton Jones, and relief pitcher John Wyatt — leaving three players outside the fold. All five signees received pay raises.

At Tampa, Fla., however, Cincinnati batterymen began workouts with four starting pitchers — Jim Maloney, Milt Pappas, Mel Queen and Gary Nolan — among the missing.

Other signees included infielder Tony Perez, Reds; pitcher Dick Farrell, Phillies; infielder Felix Millan, Braves; infielder Tim Cullen, White Sox, and pitcher Jim Ollum, Twins.

Minnesota southpaw Jim Kaat, who tore ligaments in his pitching arm on the next-to-last day of the 1967 season, threw for 10 minutes at the Twins' Orlando, Fla., camp and said his elbow felt tight.

And Carl Yastrzemski, the AL's Most Valuable Player last year, got left at the gate. The Red Sox's slugger and his family arrived at Boston's Logan Airport an hour early for a 10 a.m., EST, flight to the team's Winter Haven, Fla., base — and then was told there was no room for him on the plane.

The Yastrzemskis waited three hours for a later flight and finally arrived in Winter Haven Thursday afternoon — still well ahead of Yaz' March 1 reporting date.

Finally. . .we have found a little time to do a little side work. . .and as we look up with just wonder if there's any chance of us hitting a perfect night.

Our eyes have been watching the basketball action around the SEMO area this week. ..so we have a better knowledge of how certain teams are playing.

This is the next to last night for what's left of the class S and M schools. ..so anything can happen. . .especially with a team with all seniors. . .but. . .no one has that so it's just going to be one of those rough and rugged nights for all concerned.

These eight teams remaining in the tournament's are the cream of the crop in Southeast Missouri in their respective class.

Those looking over my shoulder have yelled. .."you've stalled long enough". ..I guess we have so here goes all of our light bulbs. ..crystal balls. . .eight balls. . .mystic pipes and whatever we can find lying around loose into a big pot of boiling water. ..here it comes. . .tonight's predictions:

No better place than to start at Bloomfield, where the finals will be played.

Bloomfield
Consolation

Neelyville vs. Richland -- Undoubtedly both teams have lost a little of their desire. . .after heartbreaking losses in last night's semifinal play. . .One fan remarked after the game. . . "We wonder if enough boys from either team will show up for the game". ..they will and that's just what it will be a great game. . .Neelyville 72, Richland 58.

Championship

Dexter vs. Doniphan --- Doniphan has shaken its tournament jinx in the Bloomfield gym and has fired past two tough opponents to reach their present position. Dexter always gets up for the big ones and tonight's game is just that. ..BIG ONE. . .Dexter has the defense to stop the Dons' scoring ace. ..Mike Duncan and have the scoring punch in Jeff Cox, Harlan Guethle and Darrell Dixon to move into state play. Dexter 70, Doniphan 63.

Gideon
Semi-finals

Holcomb vs. Hayti North -- Many felt that the defending tournament champion. . .Hayti North. . .would fail to make the grade for the semifinals. ..but it's here and is meeting the top seeded Hornets. Both have been playing their best in the tournament and will battle down to the wire. Who's your pick. . .I'll take Holcomb. Holcomb 67, Hayti North 60.

North Pemiscot vs. South Pemiscot -- Both have good ball clubs and have got the desire along with it. ..They have met twice and have split games with both taking wins by the identical number of points. Tonight's contest will be the tie breaker and we feel that the Northerners will do it again. . .Those Yankee Mustangs. North Pemiscot 64, South Pemiscot 61.

Clarkton
Semi-finals

Cooter vs. Bell City --- This is where Cinderella (Cooter) loses her slipper. ..That Bell City ball club has to be recognized as a contender for the title...They'll walk over the upstart Wildcats into the finals where they aim at the title. .. I'll tell you more about that tomorrow. Bell City 79, Cooter 57.

Delta vs. Howardville -- Time out. ..

Boy what a game. ..Davids vs. Golieths. . .with the later referring to the tall Howardville ball club and the other to the small but tough Delta unit. This is where offensive meets defense. . .Can either take the other? . . .We think yes and here's our surprising call. . .Delta 88, Howardville 83. . .not too much defense.

Illmo-Scott City

Prognosticators note: Please have a moment of deep meditation for us. . .we need it as we look into our "smart pot" . . .Help.

Oran vs. Scott County Central ---- Would you believe five overtime periods. . .six minute rest period before the sixth and then the electricity going off. ..I would. This game means more to each ball club than does next week's meals. . .It will settle the battle of the Braves and Eagles as each have lost to the other twice this season. ..We feel the key to this test will be the playing condition of the Braves. . .Lee Stevens. . It'll be close for three quarters. ..the fourth we can't see. .. but we'll take a stab at the action. Oran 75, Scott Central 67.

Matthews vs. Notre Dame --- Can we pass??? NO. ..The Pirates have their work cut out for them as they did last season. . in the final game of the I-SC tournament of which the Bulldogs won and then proceeded into the state tournament where they finished third. . .No doubt the gym will be full as it was last year. ..and no doubt both teams are up for the game. ..Here's how it looks from here. ..Matthews will have to play a tough defense against the bigger Dog crew while the Dogs will have to do the same. ..The win may lie in the rebounding department. . .both have excellent jumpers. Matthews 82, Notre Dame 76.

See you tonight. . . in the line of Illmo - Scott City. . .Doors open at 5 p.m.

Dons Shake Jinx; Dexter In Finals

BLOOMFIELD - Doniphan has shaken off its Bloomfield basketball tournament jinx and proved that with a come-from-behind 70-68 victory over the top seeded Richland Rebels last night in the semifinal round opening match.

Dexter followed suit by knocking off second Neelyville, 70-63.

The losers, Richland and Neelyville, open tonight's final night of class M regional tournament play with a 7 p.m. consolation match. Then will come the big game at 8:30 p.m. as the third and fourth seeded units fight for the title.

Last night's loss by the Rebels had many fans mumbling to themselves and asking questions why Richland's first team failed to see but limited action during the second half.

Richland started hot. It hit its first four field goal attempts. It pulled the first four defensive rebounds and stopped the Rebs scoring through the first two minutes. It surged out into an 11-point lead at one time before it hit its earlier season rut. . . mistakes.

Charles Pardon's Rebels, pressing early in the game fell back into a half court man to man defense that allowed the Dons to come down and set up. When they did the one man show of Mike Duncan quickly took over. Before the second quarter was half over, he had shot the Dons into a tie, 27-27. Seconds later they took the lead for the first time as Larry Jackson dropped in a free throw.

Doniphan held that one point lead at the half, 37-36, but was threatened with the loss of star center Duncan, who had drawn four first half fouls.

While setting out four of the 16 minutes in the first half, Duncan's squad was able to hold on, although missing the scoring of the ace, who had 17 points at his departure.

Dean Williamson was the Rebs' big first half gun, firing in 14 points, but he failed to see action during the second half as coach Pardon went with his second team and a few reserves.

Richland's second platoon overcame the first half Doniphan lead and fired out into a 58-54 lead at the end of three. The Dons chances of overtaking the Rebs seemed dim as they lost its star guard, Jackson, with 5:06 left in the period.

Playing with two reserves, three starters and Duncan with four personal fouls, Doniphan began to fire out after they lost their other starting guard, John Shemwell, on fouls.

Richland was leading when the last of the starting guards went out but Duncan started his one man show and pushed the Dons into a 68-68 deadlock with 1:07 remaining.

The Rebs couldn't do anything right and when they started to bring the ball upcourt against the Dons press. . . they did something wrong each time.

Both teams played the last minute and seven seconds on the Dons end of the floor. Doniphan controlled the ball but was tied with 28 seconds remaining as David Knight and Rick Fowler jumped for the ball. The tip went to Richland, who lost it when one of the guards kicked it to a Doniphan player, who in turn fired down to Duncan, who got fouled and sank a pair of free throws on a one and one situation for the lead.

Duncan fired in 36 points for the night, marking 66 for two tournament games. He hit 17 of 20 free throws.

A shot by Richland's Willie Jones with one second left fell off the rim as the horn sounded.

Dexter beat the Neelyville Tigers at their own game last night . . . rebounding.

The Bearcats blocked out the big rebounding trio of the Tigers and grabbed the ball for themselves as they took an early lead and played superb defense.

Darrell Dixon's defensive work and free throw accuracy was big part of the Bearcats' victory as the six foot senior held Neelyville's high scoring guard, Mark Parker, to six points, four of them coming on fast break layins.

Jeff Cox was the big scoring gun for the Cats, who fired in 21 points.

Dexter won the game at the charity line, netting 28 of 34 attempts while Neelyville won the battle from the field 27-21 but lost 28-9 at the line.

Neelyville held a half time lead of 32-31 on a late shot by Lee Stone, but that was the only time it led as Dexter fired back out front in the last half.

OMAHA, Neb. -- Airman First Class Lexie Williams Jr., son of Mr. and Mrs. Lex Williams of Rt. 1, Portageville, Mo., has helped his unit earn the Air Force Outstanding Unit Award.

Airman Williams, a weather observer with the 3902nd Air Base Wing at Offutt AFB, Neb., will wear a distinctive service ribbon as a permanent decoration. The unit was honored for exceptionally meritorious performance during a one-year period.

The airman and wing personnel provide a vast scope of services that range from maintaining the base as the headquarters and nerve center of the Strategic Air Command to flying a variety of aircraft in support of the nation's nuclear deterrent force. The wing logged 41,449 hours of flying time - more than recorded by a major component of the command - as a singular accomplishment during the period.

Airman Williams, a graduate of Portageville High School, received his B.S. degree in 1965 from Central Methodist College, Fayette, Mo.

His wife, Mary, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. R. L. Fisher of 110 W. Fourth St., Portageville.

WITH U. S. COMBAT AIR FORCES, Vietnam -- Staff Sergeant Freddie S. Fair, son of Mr. and Mrs. Herschel Fair of 308 Millar Ave., East Prairie, Mo., has helped his unit win top honors for keeping its airplanes flying over Vietnam while saving U.S. taxpayers dollars.

Sergeant Fair is a computor specialist with the 3rd Supply Squadron at Bien Hoa Air Base that has been selected as the best unit of its kind in the U.S. Seventh Air Force, Vietnam.

The sergeant's organization now vies for similar honors throughout the Pacific Air Forces and subsequent competition for the Daedalians Supply Effectiveness Award. The annual award, sponsored by the Order of Daedalians -- an organization of World War I pilots - is presented to the Air Force base-level supply unit with the best record for year-long operations.

Handling a variety of more than 85,000 items ranging from paper clips to jet engines, squadron personnel saved the Air Force nearly $13½ million last year by increased efficiency and utilization of materiel.

At the same time, the squadron supported F-100 Super Sabre jet fighters of the 3rd Tactical Fighter Wing in attaining a rating nearly five times higher than that normally expected for staying operationally ready through availability of parts.

Sergeant Fair completed requirements for his high school diploma after entering the Air Force through an Air Force education program.

His wife, Betty, is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Amos Holifield, 902 Helena St., Charleston, Mo.

Hearing Set on Alton Harbor

ST. LOUIS (AP) — A public hearing is to be held some time in April to discuss the possibility of a commercial boat harbor at the city of Alton, Ill., an Army Corps of Engineers said Thursday.

Col. Edwin Decker said the Corps is considering several proposals that would make such a harbor possible. One, discussed by the Alton City Council would have the Alton Licks and Dam moved two miles downstream.

Decker said another possibility is to renovate the existing locks and dam. He said a meeting with the office of the chief of engineers in Washington would be held before the April hearing.

Now, since we are going to be forced to have our cars checked before we can purchase license to drive our own car's, what will we morons do if something goes wrong between Yearly inspections, just what can we do, to whom can we go if our brakes, lights, tire blow out's etc., occurs, and no inspector around to tell us what has happened? Good ole free America, what freedom, who's kidding who? Just one more way to force the poor guy, who has enough pride, and an old pick up truck, hauling trash and tin cans, in order to make a honest living, and stay off welfare, those old pickup trucks will not pass inspections, but still we never hear of any of those wrecks having a wreck, they work quietly, and no big show.

Now, some time we read about a police Man running into a telephone pole, those cars should be inspected, drivers too, nothing said tho, at once it's classed as an unavoidable accident, no fine of course, watch out Brother, if I should do the same thing.

I have driven cars and trucks, fifty years, I have had minor accidents, my highest cost was $28.00, but now I will have to ask an inspector, what has happened if my brakes fail, or my lights have gone out, what can I do, no one to tell me?

City Fathers Build Billy A New Fort

TOPEKA, Kan. (AP) — Billy George, a 10-year-old boy with cerebral palsy, has a new "fort"— a small structure built by Mayor Charles Wright, Park Commissioner Lauren Nash and five firemen.

The clubhouse, or fort as Billy calls it, replaces one the city had torn down because it was built on a city easement. Property kept open by the city for its uses such as utility maintenance.

When the mayor heard about it, he vowed Billy would have a new fort.

Nash and the five firemen volunteered to help. They finished the job Thursday.

The mayor said the whole affair wasn't handled right in the first place.

"I would rather have them building a temporary structure on an easement than playing in the streets," he said.

Billy's parents, Mr. and Mrs. William George, had received a city notice that the old fort would have to be taken down. Mrs. George wrote a letter to the city commissioners about it. Before it got to the mayor's attention, city workmen had removed the fort Billy and his friends had so painstakingly put together.

Here in part is the letter that moved the mayor:

"Mr. George and I have a son with cerebral palsy, a mild case, and of course boys being active creatures and alive as they are, are hesitant at playing with Billy.

"One day last summer they thought it would be fun to build a clubhouse— a fort as far as Billy is concerned.

"I was thrilled with the idea and said they could build it on our back easement, thinking that this would give our son a chance to play and be constructive.

"Billy enjoyed the company and skillful hands of older boys. He stayed in it most of his awake hours. But now ..."

FBI Presses Probe Into Embassy Blast

WASHINGTON (AP) — The government is throwing large numbers of Federal Bureau of Investigation agents into the search for the early morning bomber who touched off a blast at the Soviet Embassy.

Scores of FBI men, government demolitions experts and Washington policemen have been working over the debris on the embassy grounds since the explosion Wednesday morning.

So far they have not been able to determine— or have chosen not to report publicly— the type of explosive used.

An intensive search is being made for a bushy-haired man seen by a cab driver who was close to the building when the bomb went off on a window ledge. Cabbie Richard E. West told police he attempted to drive after the man, who was on foot, but lost him after he rounded a corner.

West had been turning into an alley by the embassy. Another cab ahead of him was rocked heavily by the blast, losing hub caps, he said.

West said he ran to assist the dazed driver of the other cab but was interrupted by a man in a dark suit who told him to pursue a man West had seen moments before as he pulled into the alley.

The man who addressed him in the alley identified himself but West said he didn't catch the name and remembers hearing only a rank— "Major." Authorities have not identified him more fully.

FBI agents and other investigators on the case have been attempting to find other motorists who might have been driving by the embassy in the hours preceding the blast. Close to the street, the building is easily approached and lacks any sort of wall or high fence.

The State Department said Thursday the life of Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin and other Soviet officials in this country was threatened in an anonymous letter in late January.

Department spokesmen said security precautions were stepped up as a result. They would not elaborate on the nature of the measures, except to say they had been "carefully explained to representatives of the embassy and of the Soviet United Nations mission."

Navy Studies Floating Missiles

WASHINGTON (AP) — Navy engineers are studying a possible new generation of long-range missiles that would be fired while floating upright on the ocean's surface like partially submerged bowling pins.

Pentagon sources said such a missile would be released from a submarine and then fired by remote control as it bobbed on the surface. A weighted bottom would keep the missile from tipping over.

Target information would be fed into the missile's guidance system before it was released from its submarine, sources said.

The proposed new system would be cheaper and simpler than the Polaris submarine with its complicated mechanisms for launching and firing missiles.

The new weapons would have a range of about 6,000 miles— roughly twice that of the most advanced current submarine-fired missile, the Poseidon.

This new approach is one of four being kept on the back burner for possible development in the event the Soviet Union achieves significantly greater accuracy with its intercontinental missiles and thus threatens the survivability of land-based American missiles.

The other approaches involve:

— Placing Poseidon missiles on surface ships.

— Mounting land-based intercontinental ballistic missiles on trucks so they might be moved about to foil a knockout blow.

— Creation of an entirely new long-range, land-based missile fired from a revolutionary type of silo which would be specially concealed and protected.

These concepts emerged from a study project ordered by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara in late 1966.

Called Strat-X, the study's objective was to examine "future ballistic missile basing concepts and missile performance characteristics required to counter potential Soviet strategic offensive forces" and proliferation of antimissile systems.

Of the four approaches, the new submarine-launched missile system and the proposed extra-protected and concealed silo were given a higher standing than the surface ship missile plan and the truck-mounted missiles.

Secretary of the Navy Paul R. Ignatius spoke recently in general terms of the proposed submarine-launched system.

"These submarines would operate from U.S. ports," he said. "As elements of the nation's secure strategic offensive forces they could maneuver over large ocean areas remaining continuously in range of targets."

The double range over advanced Polaris and Poseidon missiles would infinitely complicate the Soviet problem of locating and destroying the submarines which would launch the missiles.

Farmers Told How to Get Loans Easier

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Farmers could obtain bank loans similar to those granted to businessmen if they would only run their operations in a businesslike manner, says a Missouri banker.

Willis W. Alexander, president of the Trenton (Mo.) Trust Co., told about 230 bankers attending a farm school at Kansas State University Thursday:

"The farmer frequently lacks the records that businessmen present; he has no projections, no budgets, no performance checks and frequently declines to accept the discipline imposed by these records.

"Too often the farmer assumes he is automatically entitled to the credit he desires."

THE "GOD BIT"

A young man joined the church at his wife's insistence. Soon he ceased to attend and when he was visited his reply was, "I have already tried the 'God-bit'." But he had not tried the "God-bit". The proposed new system would be cheaper and simpler than the Polaris submarine with its complicated mechanisms for launching and firing missiles.

The new weapons would have a range of about 6,000 miles— roughly twice that of the most advanced current submarine-fired missile, the Poseidon.

This new approach is one of four being kept on the back burner for possible development in the event the Soviet Union achieves significantly greater accuracy with its intercontinental missiles and thus threatens the survivability of land-based American missiles.

The other approaches involve:

— Placing Poseidon missiles on surface ships.

— Mounting land-based intercontinental ballistic missiles on trucks so they might be moved about to foil a knockout blow.

— Creation of an entirely new long-range, land-based missile fired from a revolutionary type of silo which would be specially concealed and protected.

These concepts emerged from a study project ordered by Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara in late 1966.

Called Strat-X, the study's objective was to examine "future ballistic missile basing concepts and missile performance characteristics required to counter potential Soviet strategic offensive forces" and proliferation of antimissile systems.

Of the four approaches, the new submarine-launched missile system and the proposed extra-protected and concealed silo were given a higher standing than the surface ship missile plan and the truck-mounted missiles.

Secretary of the Navy Paul R. Ignatius spoke recently in general terms of the proposed submarine-launched system.

"These submarines would operate from U.S. ports," he said. "As elements of the nation's secure strategic offensive forces they could maneuver over large ocean areas remaining continuously in range of targets."

The double range over advanced Polaris and Poseidon missiles would infinitely complicate the Soviet problem of locating and destroying the submarines which would launch the missiles.

Farmers Told How to Get Loans Easier

MANHATTAN, Kan. (AP) — Farmers could obtain bank loans similar to those granted to businessmen if they would only run their operations in a businesslike manner, says a Missouri banker.

Willis W. Alexander, president of the Trenton (Mo.) Trust Co., told about 230 bankers attending a farm school at Kansas State University Thursday:

"The farmer frequently lacks the records that businessmen present; he has no projections, no budgets, no performance checks and frequently declines to accept the discipline imposed by these records.

"Too often the farmer assumes he is automatically entitled to the credit he desires."

THE "GOD BIT"

A young man joined the church at his wife's insistence. Soon he ceased to attend and when he was visited his reply was, "I have already tried the 'God-bit'." But he had not tried the "God-bit". All he had tried was the "church-bit". Many have tried the church, but have not actually tried God. Where the church is what it can be, men meet God through the life of the church. If you have not met God, it would be worth trying church again.

Teacher Strikes Hit Two New Mexico Cities

ALBUQUERQUE, N.M. (AP) — A teachers' walkout that has closed schools attended by more than 80,000 pupils went into its second day today with no solution in sight.

The teachers at Albuquerque and Belen, 30 miles to the south, are demanding that Gov. David Cargo call a special session of the legislature to adopt more financing for public schools.

Cargo met late Thursday with the New Mexico Board of Education and other state education officials. Although Cargo announced no immediate action he said the state would begin work to develop a foundation type of school financing program being demanded by the teachers.

Cargo indicated that the strike is a matter for local boards of education.

Dr. Robert Chisholm, the superintendent, closed Albuquerque's public schools until further notice Thursday on grounds that too few of the city's 2,900 teachers showed up to instruct their 78,000 pupils.

The 2,400-member Albuquerque Classroom Teachers Association voted overwhelmingly Wednesday night to remain away from their classrooms until Cargo calls the special legislative session.

Then 140 teachers in Belen voted to follow the Albuquerque example, forcing officials to close schools attended by 3,200 Belen youngsters.

Elsewhere in the state, however, teachers apparently were giving Cargo until noon Monday to agree to call the special legislative session. The 11,800-member New Mexico Education Association set the Monday deadline for Cargo Wednesday.

Cairo Youth Pleads Guilty To Beating Two

CAIRO - Willie Martin, Jr., 18, of Cairo, pleaded guilty in Alexander County Court Thursday to the charges of criminal damage to property and battery.

Judge Mike O'Shea delayed sentencing until Feb. 29 at 2 p.m.

State's Attorney Peyton Berbling dismissed another charge of battery against Martin.

He was charged in connection with an incident which occurred Jan 24. A Cairo school teacher and a student allegedly were beaten and the teacher's car damaged.

Martin, represented by attorney Lewis Wingate, had originally entered a plea of innocent to all three charges. He changed the pleas Thursday just before the trial was scheduled to take place.

First of 4 Bank Holdup Suspects Pleads Guilty

OLATHE, Kan. (AP) — A prison sentence was expected to be assessed today against Andrew Evan Gipson, 31, as a result of the Jan. 19 holdup of the Metcalf State Bank.

Gipson pleaded guilty Wednesday to six charges, including bank robbery.

The court, at the state's request, dismissed a murder charge against Gipson in the shooting of Sgt. Eldon Miller, highway patrolman.

Three other persons face the same charges, including murder, in the case. They are Henry Floyd Brown, 39; Mrs. Karen Goetz, 24, and Mrs. Bonnie Sue Wilane, 22.

James Bouska, county attorney, said he hoped to have one preliminary hearing for all three March 1.

Brown, who was wounded in the gun battle in which Miller was killed shortly after the robbery, was returned to Olathe Thursday from the state prison hospital at Lansing.

Brown was scheduled to be arraigned today.

Mrs. Wilane, divorced mother of two, was returned by ambulance from Cedar Rapids, Iowa, Thursday and was taken into the courthouse on a stretcher for her arraignment. Her preliminary hearing was set for March 1 and she was ordered held under $100,000 bond at the state women's prison hospital at Lansing.

Mrs. Wilane shot herself three times in the stomach when FBI agents sought to arrest her in Cedar Rapids the day after the robbery.

Mrs. Goetz, who surrendered voluntarily with Gipson Jan. 30, was to have a preliminary hearing today, but Bouska said he would ask to have it continued to March 1.

Brother Faces Murder Charge In Shooting

POPLAR BLUFF - Jessie Willard Winberry, 33, a resident of route two, was arraigned Thursday on a charge of first degree murder in connection with the death of his brother, Husler Shirl Winberry.

Magistrate Judge Jack Jolly ordered Winberry held without bond.

Winberry is charged in connection with the death of his brother, Shirl, 27, a self-employed mechanic of route two, who was pronounced dead on arrival at Doctors Hospital Tuesday. The hospital reported that Shirl was struck in the neck by a .22 caliber bullet and the bullet lodged in the spinal column.

Services for Shirl Winberry were at 2 p.m. Thursday at the Landess Funeral Chapel in Malden with burial in the Elder Cemetery.

Suspect Held In Attack On Woman

CAIRO -- Authorities are holding a suspect in connection with the attack on Mrs. Sandy Wenzel, which occurred Monday night in the Wenzel residence.

As the investigation proceeded, city and county police officials who are combining efforts to solve the case, disclosed few details about the suspect.

He was ferreted out of a day-long dragnet operated by law enforcement officials. It was estimated that more than 25 persons were checked and the suspect was one of those being checked. Charges against him were filed Tuesday.

Officials indicated that they considered the man, believed to be about 28 years old, a prime suspect and gave indication that a substantial amount of evidence connected him with the attack.

Mrs. Wenzel was attacked about 6:30 p.m., Monday in her home while her husband and child were away from the residence. The attacker apparently fled through a rear door when the husband and child entered the home through the front door.

The police dragnet was implement as they searched for a man who was described by Mrs. Wenzel.

Chief of Police Carl J. Clutts said one charge has been filed against the suspect and other charges may follow.

Little New in 'Experiments In Television'

NEW YORK (AP) — Sunday afternoons, now that football has departed and the political season is upon us, have begun to assume some of the old familiar shape that Fred Friendly called "an intellectual ghetto." There are talk shows, news shows and there is one program on NBC euphemistically called "Experiment in Television."

The latter is not quite accurate. Few of the programs in the series last season presented anything much in the way of new forms.

It did, however, present a drama written by a resident of the Watts area of Los Angeles, acted by Watts people and filmed in Watts. This season there will be another Watts production—material produced by its writers workshop and acted by members of its drama workshop.

But even if there is little that is truly experimental about the series, it does have a distinctly noncommercial air about it. The season's premiere show last Sunday was called "Four Days to Omaha," and told the story of a real American soldier who died 25 years ago in the assault on Omaha Beach. The story-telling method was hardly unique since it consisted primarily of filmed family and acquaintances as they reminisced about him.

This week, the hour program will be "The Hamster of Happiness," a two-character drama involving an old woman and her daughter-in-law who have but one thing in common— a son and husband who deserted them both.

Perhaps one truly experimental program of this season's batch will come along March 3 with "Passport to Prague." This was shot in the Czechoslovakian capital in two languages — English and Czech, without translations. It will tell the story of an American woman who speaks no Czech arriving in Prague and, although happily married, becoming involved with a Czech widower who speaks no English.

Victor Vicas, who directed, produced and coauthored the story said it represented the first cooperation between the United States and Czechoslovakia in the television area. Vicas, a naturalized American citizen, was born in Russia and lives in Paris. His coauthor, Manya Starr is an American. The stars are Hildy Brooks an American actress and Fero Valecky, a Czech actor. The camera crew and production aides were Czechs.

Auto Strikers Reach Agreement

DETROIT (AP) — Negotiators for the Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers Union reached agreement today on a new local contract at an assembly plant in St. Louis, closed since Jan. 8 by a strike.

The tentative settlement is subject to a ratification vote by some 4,000 hourly production workers.

A company spokesman said if the pact is approved Saturday, the plant can be back in production Monday turning out Dodge and Plymouth intermediate sized models.

The 45-day-old strike in St. Louis was the sole local plant dispute remaining unsettled at Chrysler facilities. Local contract supplement the national pact signed last December.

Travel Tax Has Support Surtax Proposal Lacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's proposed tax on American travel outside the Western Hemisphere has a big plus behind it that his income tax hike proposal lacks: the support of Rep. Wilbur D. Mills.

But the Arkansas Democrat and chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee— who steers that tax-writing panel according to his own economic views and not necessarily the White House's— may exact a price for his support the administration finds steep.

Mills has told associates there is no chance of corralling the House votes to pass a foreign travel bill unless it contains some attractions for members worried about competition that imports pose for products of their districts.

The push in Congress for quotas on imports or other similar devices worries the advocates of international trade with minimum restrictions. This has been the proclaimed goal of U.S. policy from the days of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Cordel Hull.

Today tariffs have been bargained down until they are relatively insignificant and the United States was believed ready to tackle next the nontariff barriers to trade— quotas, border taxes, export subsidies and the like.

But the chronic U.S. deficit in international payments has strengthened the hand of those advocating protection of U.S. industries in the domestic market. This is true even though the United States has maintained a surplus of exports over imports. The payments deficit resulted from other factors, such as tourist spending, investment abroad and government military and aid outlays.

The administration has promised recommendations to improve the U.S. trade surplus as part of the larger program for righting the payments balance. Mills has pointedly told the administration to hurry up.

The question now worrying administration strategists is whether Mills will insist on stronger measures than the U.S. trade negotiators would recommend as part of the package with some form of travel tax.

The General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, to which this country and its principal trading partners give allegiance, sanctions a few kinds of protection devices while banning most.

But if the United States tried to institute border taxes on imports, for instance, it would likely provoke complaints to GATT, which distinguishes among the kinds of taxes to be equalized. The U.S. system, under which an important part of the total tax levy is imposed by states and local subdivisions, is not exactly paralleled elsewhere.

In any case, much the clamor in Congress is for conceivably more drastic measures, such as quotas. Mills himself has introduced a textile quota bill, one of many such measures in behalf of a multitude of industries. Mills has not pushed his quota bill, but it does nothing to diminish his bargaining power with the administration.

Maoists Claim Shaky Victory

TOKYO (AP) — Mao Tse-tung asserted his shaky authority over Kwantung Province by setting up a ruling revolutionary committee there. But witnesses said scores of Chinese were killed and wounded at the inauguration.

Travelers reaching Hong Kong reported that fighting broke out among rival factions battling for places at the mammoth inaugural attended by an estimated 600,000 persons.

One traveler said he counted about a hundred bodies of persons who had been beaten to death with clubs and other crude weapons.

Another informant said the fighting spread and the army was called in to quell it.

Peking's official New China News Agency, NCNA, which reported the "triumphant establishment" of the committee, made no reference to trouble. Recent differences have arisen between rival organizations which claim to support Mao in the southern province of 40 million people.

In recent weeks Kwangtung radio stations have reported opposition to Maoist activities, proclaiming that the situation "was good" for a revolutionary council takeover of power in the province.

Suspect Held In Attack On Woman

CAIRO -- Authorities are holding a suspect in connection with the attack on Mrs. Sandy Wenzel, which occurred Monday night in the Wenzel residence.

As the investigation proceeded, city and county police officials who are combining efforts to solve the case, disclosed few details about the suspect.

He was ferreted out of a day-long dragnet operated by law enforcement officials. It was estimated that more than 25 persons were checked and the suspect was one of those being checked. Charges against him were filed Tuesday.

Officials indicated that they considered the man, believed to be about 28 years old, a prime suspect and gave indication that a substantial amount of evidence connected him with the attack.

Mrs. Wenzel was attacked about 6:30 p.m., Monday in her home while her husband and child were away from the residence. The attacker apparently fled through a rear door when the husband and child entered the home through the front door.

The police dragnet was implement as they searched for a man who was described by Mrs. Wenzel.

Chief of Police Carl J. Clutts said one charge has been filed against the suspect and other charges may follow.

Little New in 'Experiments In Television'

NEW YORK (AP) — Sunday afternoons, now that football has departed and the political season is upon us, have begun to assume some of the old familiar shape that Fred Friendly called "an intellectual ghetto." There are talk shows, news shows and there is one program on NBC euphemistically called "Experiment in Television."

The latter is not quite accurate. Few of the programs in the series last season presented anything much in the way of new forms.

It did, however, present a drama written by a resident of the Watts area of Los Angeles, acted by Watts people and filmed in Watts. This season there will be another Watts production—material produced by its writers workshop and acted by members of its drama workshop.

But even if there is little that is truly experimental about the series, it does have a distinctly noncommercial air about it. The season's premiere show last Sunday was called "Four Days to Omaha," and told the story of a real American soldier who died 25 years ago in the assault on Omaha Beach. The story-telling method was hardly unique since it consisted primarily of filmed family and acquaintances as they reminisced about him.

This week, the hour program will be "The Hamster of Happiness," a two-character drama involving an old woman and her daughter-in-law who have but one thing in common— a son and husband who deserted them both.

Perhaps one truly experimental program of this season's batch will come along March 3 with "Passport to Prague." This was shot in the Czechoslovakian capital in two languages — English and Czech, without translations. It will tell the story of an American woman who speaks no Czech arriving in Prague and, although happily married, becoming involved with a Czech widower who speaks no English.

Victor Vicas, who directed, produced and coauthored the story said it represented the first cooperation between the United States and Czechoslovakia in the television area. Vicas, a naturalized American citizen, was born in Russia and lives in Paris. His coauthor, Manya Starr is an American. The stars are Hildy Brooks an American actress and Fero Valecky, a Czech actor. The camera crew and production aides were Czechs.

Auto Strikers Reach Agreement

DETROIT (AP) — Negotiators for the Chrysler Corp. and the United Auto Workers Union reached agreement today on a new local contract at an assembly plant in St. Louis, closed since Jan. 8 by a strike.

The tentative settlement is subject to a ratification vote by some 4,000 hourly production workers.

A company spokesman said if the pact is approved Saturday, the plant can be back in production Monday turning out Dodge and Plymouth intermediate sized models.

The 45-day-old strike in St. Louis was the sole local plant dispute remaining unsettled at Chrysler facilities. Local contract supplement the national pact signed last December.

Travel Tax Has Support Surtax Proposal Lacks

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Johnson's proposed tax on American travel outside the Western Hemisphere has a big plus behind it that his income tax hike proposal lacks: the support of Rep. Wilbur D. Mills.

But the Arkansas Democrat and chairman of the House Ways and Means Committee— who steers that tax-writing panel according to his own economic views and not necessarily the White House's— may exact a price for his support the administration finds steep.

Mills has told associates there is no chance of corraling the House votes to pass a foreign travel bill unless it contains some attractions for members worried about competition that imports pose for products of their districts.

The push in Congress for quotas on imports or other similar devices worries the advocates of international trade with minimum restrictions. This has been the proclaimed goal of U.S. policy from the days of Franklin D. Roosevelt and Cordel Hull.

Today tariffs have been bargained down until they are relatively insignificant and the United States was believed ready to tackle next the nontariff barriers to trade— quotas, border taxes, export subsidies and the like.

But the chronic U.S. deficit in international payments has strengthened the hand of those advocating protection of U.S. industries in the domestic market. This is true even though the United States has maintained a surplus of exports over imports. The payments deficit resulted from other factors, such as tourist spending, investment abroad and government military and aid outlays.

The administration has promised recommendations to improve the U.S. trade surplus as part of the larger program for righting the payments balance. Mills has pointedly told the administration to hurry up.

The question now worrying administration strategists is whether Mills will insist on stronger measures than the U.S. trade negotiators would recommend as part of the package with some form of travel tax.

The General Agreement on Tariffs and Trade, to which this country and its principal trading partners give allegiance, sanctions a few kinds of protection devices while banning most.

But if the United States tried to institute border taxes on imports, for instance, it would likely provoke complaints to GATT, which distinguishes among the kinds of taxes to be equalized. The U.S. system, under which an important part of the total tax levy is imposed by states and local subdivisions, is not exactly paralleled elsewhere.

In any case, much the clamor in Congress is for conceivably more drastic measures, such as quotas. Mills himself has introduced a textile quota bill, one of many such measures in behalf of a multitude of industries. Mills has not pushed his quota bill, but it does nothing to diminish his bargaining power with the administration.

Maoists Claim Shaky Victory

TOKYO (AP) — Mao Tse-tung asserted his shaky authority over Kwantung Province by setting up a ruling revolutionary committee there. But witnesses said scores of Chinese were killed and wounded at the inauguration.

Travelers reaching Hong Kong reported that fighting broke out among rival factions battling for places at the mammoth inaugural attended by an estimated 600,000 persons.

One traveler said he counted about a hundred bodies of persons who had been beaten to death with clubs and other crude weapons.

Another informant said the fighting spread and the army was called in to quell it.

Peking's official New China News Agency, NCNA, which reported the "triumphant establishment" of the committee, made no reference to trouble. Recent differences have arisen between rival organizations which claim to support Mao in the southern province of 40 million people.

In recent weeks Kwangtung radio stations have reported opposition to Maoist activities, proclaiming that the situation "was good" for a revolutionary council takeover of power in the province.

Care Needed in Cleaning Glass Door Breakfront

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY—Mrs. L. wanted to know how to clean the glass doors on her breakfront that are covered with filigree work. She could carefully remove the tiny strips of wood on the inside that hold the glass against the filigree. Since the edges and corners of the glass are sharp, do be careful not to cut your hands or scratch the breakfront. Clean the glass on both sides and carefully replace, then re-apply the wood strips. Usually the small nails can be placed in the old holes and be easily pushed in again. I leave the head of each nail sticking out a tiny bit so I can catch it with the pliers to pull it out the next time the glass is to be cleaned.—GLADYS

DEAR GIRLS—Of course, all breakfronts may not have the glass put in this same way. Some have a wood filigree design applied to the front of the glass and the glass is fastened in permanently. In such cases, the wood openwork might be removed in one piece and then re-installed, but this would have to be done very, very carefully.

I think, if such a piece belonged to me, I would put some glass cleaner on a stick with a piece of cloth on the end and rub this into the many holes, then dry and shine the same way.—POLLY

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY—I have been treating some furniture, bought in Mexico, with warm linseed oil but do not like the resulting odor. I was told that lemon oil is just as good. Is that so?—HILDA

DEAR POLLY—Old eyeglass cases make good saucepan grips. They slip easily over the handles and can take the place of potholders.

Hang slips on a revolving tie rack in the closet. At a glance it is easy to tell which are long, which are short and which you wear with knits and so on.—HELEN

DEAR POLLY—When I make pajamas for my little boys, I put stirrups instead of feet on the bottoms. I put a big tuck on each side of the pants legs on the bottom and sew the stirrups in place. They keep the pants legs down when the boys are sleeping, do not wear out as fast as do feet and also fit into carpet slippers much easier. Thanks a million for the column.—L. N.

Nixon Hits Wide Range Of Issues

PORTSMOUTH, N.H. (AP) — In his campaigning for the New Hampshire and Wisconsin presidential primaries, Richard M. Nixon generally delivers a set speech, a "shotgun" statement aimed at a wide range of domestic and foreign issues.

He tailors it to his audiences, depending on whether he is speaking to an out-and-out Republican group or to nonpartisan gatherings such as students or Chambers of Commerce.

Measured in decibels, the volume of applause, these are the points with which Nixon appears to be striking home:

On foreign wars— "In Korea and in Vietnam, we furnished most of the arms, most of the men and most of the money. In the future, if a nation is attacked and requests American help, we should give them the assistance to fight for themselves— but we should not do the fighting for them."

On credibility— "and I think the Johnson administration would be much better advised to tell the American people the truth about the enemy's strength, the enemy's intentions, and then say that we are not going to cave in to this kind of assault. I think that telling the truth to the people of the United States will have great impact in convincing the enemy that we know how strong they are but that we have the will and determination to see the war through to a successful conclusion."

On American prestige— "When a fourth-rate power can hijack an American naval vessel on the high seas, it's time for new leadership in Washington."

On the stability of the dollar — "the Johnson administration blames business for raising prices, labor for asking for higher wages, and even the American tourists for spending money abroad. Well, my friends, it isn't what American tourists spend abroad that weakens the dollar, it's what the government is spending in Washington."

On war protests and street demonstrations— "We believe in the right of dissent. It is part of the American system. But there is no protest that justifies the use of violence."

On crime - "Crime is rising six times as fast as the population of the United States. . .some of our courts have gone too far in weakening the peace forces against the criminal forces."

Almost invariably, regardless of the type of audience, Nixon draws heavy applause with these main points. Both in New Hampshire and Wisconsin audiences respond immediately to them.

The former vice president returned to New Hampshire today after a two-day tour of Wisconsin. He is believed to be well ahead in both states but he told reporters covering his tour, "As of now I believe Wisconsin could be my hardest race."

Copper Strike Poses Election Year Pains

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The escalating copper strike battle is posing rapidly mounting election year problems for both President Johnson and his political allies in the labor movement.

AFL-CIO unions, who now view the seven-month-old strike as a vital test of labor's strength against America's corporate giants, stepped up the pressure with a threatened boycott of multimillion-dollar copper imports.

"We've got to bring these copper barons into the 20th century," said AFL-CIO President George Meany in announcing a major financial drive among all 128 AFL-CIO unions to help the copper strikers.

The 26 unions representing 60,000 strikers in the 22-state walkout have already poured far more than $15 million into strike benefits.

Although expressing confidence in eventual victory, union sources are privately expressing deep concern over the severe financial drain.

The United Steelworkers Union, the major force behind the strike, is already feeling the financial pinch and a prolonged copper strike could affect its bargaining strength with the big steel industry later this year.

The steelworkers plan a special convention to raise dues to replenish strike fund coffers.

Johnson so far has refrained from invoking an 80-day Taft-Hartley "cooling off" injunction, and declined industry demands to release copper from government stockpiles.

The politically powerful unions, already committed to support for Johnson's re-election in November, have made it known either move by the administration would be regarded as a hostile act.

But the threatened boycott on the docks of U.S. East and Gulf coast ports could dry up supplies of foreign copper and force a major showdown.

Copper imports, which Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said were running at $2 million to $3 million a day, so far have been adequate for both defense and civilian needs.

But Thomas W. Gleason, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, said Thursday, "The international longshoremen have decided in the interest of helping their fellow trade unionists on strike against the copper companies to refuse to handle all imports and exports of copper in the United States and Canada."

Gleason's union in 1964 tied up East and Gulf coast ports and sparked political and diplomatic furor by refusing to handle shipments of U.S. wheat sold to the Soviet Union.

Wirtz, after talking with the AFL-CIO executive council, told newsmen the Johnson administration plans no further intervention since the striking unions rejected a federal bargaining proposal.

Later, after Gleason telegraphed the longshoremen's boycott pledge to steelworkers Vice President Joseph P. Molony, Wirtz said he couldn't predict whether it might trigger stiffer federal action.

"I don't know how to appraise either the circumstances or the effects of it," Wirtz told The Associated Press of the boycott threat.

A steelworkers source said Gleason's boycott threat was made without first consulting copper strike leaders.

Settlement talks have been stymied since July 15 when the strike against four giant copper firms— Kennecott, Anaconda, Phelps Dodge and American Smelting and Refining— began over union demands for company-wide bargaining and the industry's refusal to grant it.

Petitions Ask Junior College Dissolution

POPLAR BLUFF -- Petitions seeking an election April 2 on the matter of dissolving the Three Rivers Junior College district, have been sent to the college board of trustees by opponents of the district.

Francis L. Ederer of Doniphan, a strong opponent of the college since before the district was formed, said that about 700 voters in Ripley, Carter, and Wayne counties have signed the petitions. Ederer said the petitions asking that the dissolution proposition be placed on the school election ballot are based on a 1966 ruling of the Missouri attorney general's office.

The attorney general ruled that Missouri law providing for the dissolution of six-director (high school) districts by a two-thirds majority vote, applies also to junior college. The statute states that 100 signatures are required on petitions to place such a dissolution issue on the regular school election ballot.

A similar opposition group in the Kansas City Junior College District, acting under the attorney general's ruling, tried to force that district to include such a proposal on the school election ballot last April. Kansas City college officials went into circuit court in Jackson County and obtained a declaratory judgment blocking it.

The Jackson county circuit court ruled that the law in question does not apply to junior colleges. The opposition group then was granted a special right of appeal in the Missouri supreme court and such an appeal was filed Jan. 23, 1968.

Go-Go Dancer Leads Patrol Merry Chase In Stolen Police Car

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — After being arrested in a stolen police car overtaken by the highway patrol and police in a 40-mile chase, Margaret Ann Cocio commented:

"Boy, that was a ball. Those police cars can really move."

The unemployed go-go dancer had been stopped in her own car for driving erratically. Police said she stepped into the officer's patrol car and sped off when he left it to check her license plate.

During the chase in which she was clocked at up to 120 miles an hour Miss Cocio used the siren and red light and authorities said she forced several cars and trucks off the road.

Miss Cocio, 22, was finally forced off the road. She was charged with auto theft, hit-run driving and resisting arrest.

Bacteria Thrives on Spaceflight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some plants and insects have a rough time during spaceflight but bacteria— including those of the food-poisoning family— appear to thrive on it.

Some scientists told about it in reports prepared for a symposium today outlining results of experiments carried aboard Biosatellite 2 — a kind of flying farm of lower animal and plant organisms.

The spacecraft was launched by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration from Cape Kennedy, Fla., last September. Its experiments capsule was recovered from orbit near Hawaii after nearly 45 hours of weightless flight.

The symposium, jointly sponsored by NASA and the National Academy of Sciences, brought out these findings:

— In general, plants had trouble maintaining "proper orientation" during the zero-gravity or orbital flight.

For example, leaves of pepper plants twisted and curled downward, and wheat seedling roots grew upwards and sideways instead of downward as they do on earth.

The wheat made a good recovery after this bizarre start, and seedlings even grew slightly taller than their stay-at-home counterparts.

— Automatically applied radiation proved deadly during flight for flour beetles. Twice as many of their offspring failed to survive, compared with beetles similarly irradiated on earth.

— Wasp egg cells suffered considerable damage from radiation, but partially recovered as they matured further.

— Two strains of bacteria— including salmonella organisms that cause ills like food-poisoning and typhoid fever— grew substantially faster and seemed to tolerate radiation better in the absence of gravity than do similar microbes experiencing earth's gravity.

Another space travler that fared well was that jelly-like subject of high school biology students— the amoeba.

The scientists said they felt the Biosatellite findings have substantial potential importance for understanding the effects of space flight on higher organisms, including man.

Compass Plants

Leaves of compass plants point north and south, a characteristic caused by the twisting of the leaf stalks. Many theories have been advanced as to the reason. One explanation is that the leaves bend not to escape the heavy midday sunlight but to get the full early morning and late afternoon sunlight.

Lombardo Recuperates From Surgery

HOUSTON (AP) — Veteran band leader Guy Lombardo, who had an artery repaired in surgery this week, is expected to be released from Methodist Hospital in about 10 days.

A Methodist Hospital advisory said Lombardo, 65, was "progressing most satisfactorily" following the Wednesday morning surgery performed by Dr. Michael E. DeBakey. Lombardo entered the hospital Sunday, the statement said.

The hospital statement said the operation had no connection and was not related to the heart.

On the stability of the dollar — "the Johnson administration blames business for raising prices, labor for asking for higher wages, and even the American tourists for spending money abroad. Well, my friends, it isn't what American tourists spend abroad that weakens the dollar, it's what the government is spending in Washington."

On war protests and street demonstrations— "We believe in the right of dissent. It is part of the American system. But there is no protest that justifies the use of violence."

On crime - "Crime is rising six times as fast as the population of the United States. . .some of our courts have gone too far in weakening the peace forces against the criminal forces."

Almost invariably, regardless of the type of audience, Nixon draws heavy applause with these main points. Both in New Hampshire and Wisconsin audiences respond immediately to them.

The former vice president returned to New Hampshire today after a two-day tour of Wisconsin. He is believed to be well ahead in both states but he told reporters covering his tour, "As of now I believe Wisconsin could be my hardest race."

Copper Strike Poses Election Year Pains

MIAMI BEACH, Fla. (AP) — The escalating copper strike battle is posing rapidly mounting election year problems for both President Johnson and his political allies in the labor movement.

AFL-CIO unions, who now view the seven-month-old strike as a vital test of labor's strength against America's corporate giants, stepped up the pressure with a threatened boycott of multimillion-dollar copper imports.

"We've got to bring these copper barons into the 20th century," said AFL-CIO President George Meany in announcing a major financial drive among all 128 AFL-CIO unions to help the copper strikers.

The 26 unions representing 60,000 strikers in the 22-state walkout have already poured far more than $15 million into strike benefits.

Although expressing confidence in eventual victory, union sources are privately expressing deep concern over the severe financial drain.

The United Steelworkers Union, the major force behind the strike, is already feeling the financial pinch and a prolonged copper strike could affect its bargaining strength with the big steel industry later this year.

The steelworkers plan a special convention to raise dues to replenish strike fund coffers.

Johnson so far has refrained from invoking an 80-day Taft-Hartley "cooling off" injunction, and declined industry demands to release copper from government stockpiles.

The politically powerful unions, already committed to support for Johnson's re-election in November, have made it known either move by the administration would be regarded as a hostile act.

But the threatened boycott on the docks of U.S. East and Gulf coast ports could dry up supplies of foreign copper and force a major showdown.

Copper imports, which Secretary of Labor W. Willard Wirtz said were running at $2 million to $3 million a day, so far have been adequate for both defense and civilian needs.

But Thomas W. Gleason, president of the International Longshoremen's Association, said Thursday, "The international longshoremen have decided in the interest of helping their fellow trade unionists on strike against the copper companies to refuse to handle all imports and exports of copper in the United States and Canada."

Gleason's union in 1964 tied up East and Gulf coast ports and sparked political and diplomatic furor by refusing to handle shipments of U.S. wheat sold to the Soviet Union.

Wirtz, after talking with the AFL-CIO executive council, told newsmen the Johnson administration plans no further intervention since the striking unions rejected a federal bargaining proposal.

Later, after Gleason telegraphed the longshoremen's boycott pledge to steelworkers Vice President Joseph P. Molony, Wirtz said he couldn't predict whether it might trigger stiffer federal action.

"I don't know how to appraise either the circumstances or the effects of it," Wirtz told The Associated Press of the boycott threat.

A steelworkers source said Gleason's boycott threat was made without first consulting copper strike leaders.

Settlement talks have been stymied since July 15 when the strike against four giant copper firms— Kennecott, Anaconda, Phelps Dodge and American Smelting and Refining— began over union demands for company-wide bargaining and the industry's refusal to grant it.

Petitions Ask Junior College Dissolution

POPLAR BLUFF -- Petitions seeking an election April 2 on the matter of dissolving the Three Rivers Junior College district, have been sent to the college board of trustees by opponents of the district.

Francis L. Ederer of Doniphan, a strong opponent of the college since before the district was formed, said that about 700 voters in Ripley, Carter, and Wayne counties have signed the petitions. Ederer said the petitions asking that the dissolution proposition be placed on the school election ballot are based on a 1966 ruling of the Missouri attorney general's office.

The attorney general ruled that Missouri law providing for the dissolution of six-director (high school) districts by a two-thirds majority vote, applies also to junior college. The statute states that 100 signatures are required on petitions to place such a dissolution issue on the regular school election ballot.

A similar opposition group in the Kansas City Junior College District, acting under the attorney general's ruling, tried to force that district to include such a proposal on the school election ballot last April. Kansas City college officials went into circuit court in Jackson County and obtained a declaratory judgment blocking it.

The Jackson county circuit court ruled that the law in question does not apply to junior colleges. The opposition group then was granted a special right of appeal in the Missouri supreme court and such an appeal was filed Jan. 23, 1968.

Go-Go Dancer Leads Patrol Merry Chase In Stolen Police Car

SAN DIEGO, Calif. (AP) — After being arrested in a stolen police car overtaken by the highway patrol and police in a 40-mile chase, Margaret Ann Cocio commented:

"Boy, that was a ball. Those police cars can really move."

The unemployed go-go dancer had been stopped in her own car for driving erratically. Police said she stepped into the officer's patrol car and sped off when he left it to check her license plate.

During the chase in which she was clocked at up to 120 miles an hour Miss Cocio used the siren and red light and authorities said she forced several cars and trucks off the road.

Miss Cocio, 22, was finally forced off the road. She was charged with auto theft, hit-run driving and resisting arrest.

Bacteria Thrives on Spaceflight

WASHINGTON (AP) — Some plants and insects have a rough time during spaceflight but bacteria— including those of the food-poisoning family— appear to thrive on it.

Scientists told about it in reports prepared for a symposium today outlining results of experiments carried aboard Biosatellite 2 — a kind of flying farm of lower animal and plant organisms.

The spacecraft was launched by the National Aeronautics and Space Administration from Cape Kennedy, Fla., last September. Its experiments capsule was recovered from orbit near Hawaii after nearly 45 hours of weightless flight.

The symposium, jointly sponsored by NASA and the National Academy of Sciences, brought out these findings:

— In general, plants had trouble maintaining "proper orientation" during the zero-gravity or orbital flight.

For example, leaves of pepper plants twisted and curled downward, and wheat seedling roots grew upwards and sideways instead of downward as they do on earth.

The wheat made a good recovery after this bizarre start, and seedlings even grew slightly taller than their stay-at-home counterparts.

— Automatically applied radiation proved deadly during flight for flour beetles. Twice as many of their offspring failed to survive, compared with beetles similarly irradiated on earth.

— Wasp egg cells suffered considerable damage from radiation, but partially recovered as they matured further.

— Two strains of bacteria— including salmonella organisms that cause ills like food-poisoning and typhoid fever— grew substantially faster and seemed to tolerate radiation better in the absence of gravity than do similar microbes experiencing earth's gravity.

Another space travler that fared well was that jelly-like subject of high school biology students— the amoeba.

The scientists said they felt the Biosatellite findings have substantial potential importance for understanding the effects of space flight on higher organisms, including man.

NEW MADRID - City Collector Jack C. Long has officially filed his declaration as a candidate for re-election in the city.

Compass Plants

Leaves of compass plants point north and south, a characteristic caused by the twisting of the leaf stalks. Many theories have been advanced as to the reason. One explanation is that the leaves bend not to escape the heavy midday sunlight but to get the full early morning and late afternoon sunlight.

Lombardo Recuperates From Surgery

HOUSTON (AP) — Veteran band leader Guy Lombardo, who had an artery repaired in surgery this week, is expected to be released from Methodist Hospital in about 10 days.

A Methodist Hospital advisory said Lombardo, 65, was "progressing most satisfactorily" following the Wednesday morning surgery performed by Dr. Michael E. DeBakey. Lombardo entered the hospital Sunday, the statement said.

The hospital statement said the operation had no connection and was not related to the heart.

Another Bob Hope Christmas Overseas

Laughter, Gift from a Soldier's Santa

LONG BINH, Vietnam (ANF) — "Well, here we are at Long Binh. It's the only place in the world where lizards die of heat prostration."

A crowd of 15,000 soldiers, sailors, marines, and airmen gave out a belly laugh. Another performance of the Bob Hope Christmas Show was underway in Vietnam.

The crooked grin under the golf cap, the beautiful girls, the jokes and the music were all familiar trademarks of Hope's annual holiday visits to servicemen overseas. It was the same entertaining formula that Hope has taken to the field almost every year since the beginning of World War II.

Two generations of servicemen have laughed through Hope's holiday specials. During the past 25 years he has performed for more than 10 million men in uniform around the world. Since the close of World War II, Hope has appeared for troops in Germany, Alaska, Korea, Greenland, Okinawa, Japan, Hawaii, Greece, Thailand, Turkey, Libya, Spain, Africa, and Vietnam, as well as at camps and military hospitals in the United States.

But no one is about to grow tired of the act. To judge from the shouting and applause, the jokes were funnier and the girls were prettier this year than ever before.

From Dec. 15 to 30, Hope and his troupe of 60 entertainers, musicians, and technicians hopped from outpost to outpost in Southeast Asia. They gave 28 shows, including two impromptu performances at Wake Island and Midway while the plane was refuelling.

It was a gruelling two weeks for all the members of the Bob Hope Christmas Show. But when it was over they could rest themselves with the thought that their Christmas present to the servicemen in Vietnam was one that would not soon be forgotten.

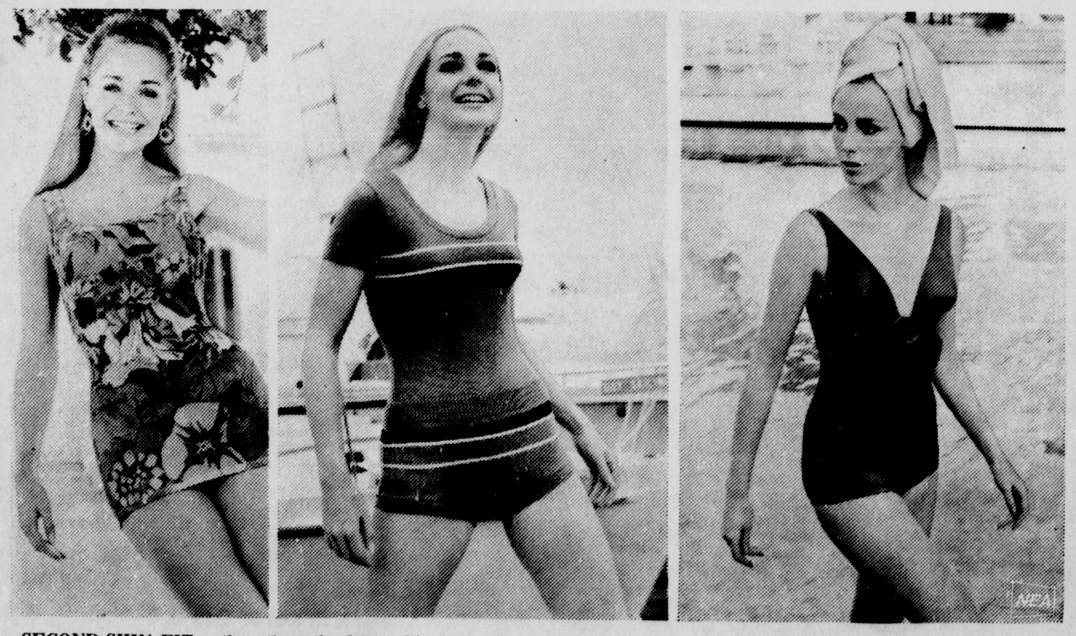
Provocative Second-Skin Swimsuits



SECOND-SKIN FIT rather than the bare skin look will be big on the resort swimsuit scene. Exotic flower-power fantasy in bold colors (left) makes this classic one-piece suit silhouette in Lycra spandex a standout. It is by Peter Pan. Kicky cover-up sweatersuit (center) in Orlon is Pandora's short-sleeved skinny knit. It is in aqua striped in black and yellow. Bill Blass for Roxanne rings in the news (right) with a slinky raspberry bodysuit maillot, front-belted and plastic-buckled at the plunge. It has a siren look in power knit satin of Antron nylon.

We're not the least bit worried about traveling to Europe this coming summer; what bugs us is getting up the price of a weekend at the nearest resort.

Ann Landers

Appreciating Today's Joys Is Key to Happiness

Dear Ann Landers: I am a teenage girl who is searching for some of the answers to life's problems. Can you tell me why everyone wants the future to hurry up and get here? Why can't people enjoy today? The 10-year-olds want to be 13. The 13-year-olds want to be 16. The 16-year-olds want to be 21. Why is it that the age ahead always seems like the ideal age to be?

I ran across a little poem that expresses this thought well. Here it is:

I plan for the future.
I yearn for the past.
And, meantime, the present
Is leaving me fast.

Will you please answer in the paper for the benefit of others who wonder about this, as I do? ---CONTENT WITH TODAY

Dear Content: The key to the answer is found in your signature. Because most people are NOT content with today, they look to tomorrow with the hope that it will offer something better. More often than not they are disappointed. The excitement of anticipation generally surpasses realization.

One of the secrets of a happy life is the ability to appreciate the joys and blessings of the present. While it is wise to plan for the future, we should make the most of each day as we live it and keep in mind that today was tomorrow, yesterday.

Dear Ann Landers: My sister and her husband needed a place to live. They have two children and are expecting a third. We rented them our small but lovely home. It was in perfect condition.

After four months they moved out and left 22 holes in the walls, a broken toilet, two broken windows, cigaret holes in the kitchen linoleum and garbage in the sink.

They refuse to fix anything because it is not their property--they paid rent. Why are relatives such slobs? Shall we sue? --INDIANA

Dear In: Strangers can be slobs, too, but it's worse when they are relatives. You should have had an agreement (in writing) that the renters would leave the house in first-class condition, as they found it.

Don't sue. It is messy, expensive and probably useless. Slobs are usually deadbeats as well.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the bride who decided to have three bridesmaids after having invited five girls to be in the wedding party reopened an old wound. Many years ago I was a bridesmaid who was looped off and I never was able to forgive the girl.

Your advice was right. You told her it didn't make much difference how she worded it, that the friendship would never be the same. How come you are so smart about so many things, Ann? Have you learned from experience? ---NO CHICKEN MYSELF

Dear Chick: If I had experienced all the problems I deal with, I'd be in no shape to write a column. What you read here is the result of consultation and brainpicking. I am in constant communication with outstanding authorities in a variety of fields -- and they make me look a lot smarter than I am.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

If You Were The Judge

Lover Cannot Be Denied Citizenship

After attending college for one year, alien Bob decided to apply for U. S. citizenship. The Immigration authorities, however, lit a fire under his attempt to become part of the American melting pot. It seemed that upon his arrival, Bob not only found the country attractive, but he found the girls equally appealing and had several affairs with them. As a result, the Immigration authorities ruled he was not of "good moral character" so as to become eligible to become a citizen.

"You can't penalize a young man because he likes girls," was Bob's answer. "I'm a bachelor. It would be immoral if I didn't like girls. I've got degrees in chemistry and speak four languages. I'd be a fine citizen."

"Sorry," retorted the Immigration authority, "but you're a hit-and-run lover. Attention without intention is highly improper."

Intent upon becoming a citizen, Bob appealed to the courts for help.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you preclude lover Bob from becoming a citizen because he lacked "good moral character"?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! He held that while Bob's relationships made his character less than "excellent" or less than "impeccable," what constitutes "good moral character," like what is beauty or what is great art, is a matter of opinion subject to considerable disagreements. Since recent investigation reveals Bob's conduct was far from uncommon, concluded the judge, he was not lacking in "good moral character" insofar as the Immigration Act is concerned.

The Sikeston High School basketball team lost two games last Friday, one in the afternoon at Cape Girardeau with Cape High and the other that evening with the Fornfelt High School at Fornfelt. The final score of the Cape tilt was 31 and 12 in favor of Cape High. The final score of the last game was 35 to 8 in favor of Fornfelt. The Sikeston boys had quite an experience with the high water on their way home. They found some bridges washed out and as a result were forced to take about a five-mile hike.

L. C. Erdman on Wednesday purchased through the J. Wesley Black Real Estate Co., from the W. J. Lemp Brewing Co., the lot just north of the Missouri Pacific tracks and west of Kingshighway. The pool room of James Nester occupies a building on part of the lot. Mr. Erdman bought the lot as a location for his General Garage.

On Monday the J. Wesley Black Estate Co., sold the Henry Welsh residence on North New Madrid street to Norman Davis for $4,-200. Mr. Welsh and family will take rooms at Mrs. Edmondson's after March 1st.

Middies Face Dismissal for Marijuana Use

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) - The superintendent of the U.S Naval Academy says 13 midshipmen face dismissal on charges of smoking marijuana in their rooms in Bancroft Hall, the academy dormitory.

Rear Adm. Draper L. Kauffman, the superintendent, said Wednesday the dismissal recommendation would be made to Secretary of the Navy Paul R. Ignatius.

Acceptance of the recommendation by the secretary is generally considered a formality. It would be the largest group dismissed from the academy in its 123-year history.

The incident marked the second time in 10 months that midshipmen had been caught smoking marijuana in the dormitory that houses the 4,000-man brigade of midshipmen. Four were dismissed in a similar incident last June.

Kauffman said the current problem came to light after an unidentified midshipman reported that he "had seen several midshipmen who appeared to be smoking marijuana in a midshipman's room in Bancroft Hall."

A spokesman at the academy said the midshipman made his observation over the weekend and felt bound by the strict honor code to report to his superiors.

The academy said the Naval Investigative Service in Washington investigated the incident and would continue its probe to determine the source of the drug and stop its use.

Witness Defies IC Bid to Drop 7 Passenger Runs

ST. LOUIS (AP) - The proposed discontinuance of seven Illinois Central passenger trains would be "a grave mistake and a disservice to the public," a witness told an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing Wednesday in St. Louis.

John P. Stupp, president of Stupp Bros. Bridge and Iron Co., in St. Louis voiced his concern over a proposal to discontinue the Panama Limited and other passenger trains. A spokesman for the city of New Orleans also was present. The railroad argued the trains are running at a loss.

Witnesses centered their comments about the Panama, which links up at Carbondale, Ill. with a Chicago section. Six of the trains IC wants to drop run between St. Louis and Carbondale.

Ann Landers

Appreciating Today's Joys Is Key to Happiness

Dear Ann Landers: I am a teenage girl who is searching for some of the answers to life's problems. Can you tell me why everyone wants the future to hurry up and get here? Why can't people enjoy today? The 10-year-olds want to be 13. The 13-year-olds want to be 16. The 16-year-olds want to be 21. Why is it that the age ahead always seems like the ideal age to be?

I ran across a little poem that expresses this thought well. Here it is:

I plan for the future.
I yearn for the past.
And, meantime, the present
Is leaving me fast.

Will you please answer in the paper for the benefit of others who wonder about this, as I do? ---CONTENT WITH TODAY

Dear Content: The key to the answer is found in your signature. Because most people are NOT content with today, they look to tomorrow with the hope that it will offer something better. More often than not they are disappointed. The excitement of anticipation generally surpasses realization.

One of the secrets of a happy life is the ability to appreciate the joys and blessings of the present. While it is wise to plan for the future, we should make the most of each day as we live it and keep in mind that today was tomorrow, yesterday.

Dear Ann Landers: My sister and her husband needed a place to live. They have two children and are expecting a third. We rented them our small but lovely home. It was in perfect condition.

After four months they moved out and left 22 holes in the walls, a broken toilet, two broken windows, cigaret holes in the kitchen linoleum and garbage in the sink.

They refuse to fix anything because it is not their property--they paid rent. Why are relatives such slobs? Shall we sue? --INDIANA

Dear In: Strangers can be slobs, too, but it's worse when they are relatives. You should have had an agreement (in writing) that the renters would leave the house in first-class condition, as they found it.

Don't sue. It is messy, expensive and probably useless. Slobs are usually deadbeats as well.

Dear Ann Landers: The letter from the bride who decided to have three bridesmaids after having invited five girls to be in the wedding party reopened an an old wound. Many years ago I was a bridesmaid who was looped off and I never was able to forgive the girl.

Your advice was right. You told her it didn't make much difference how she worded it, that the friendship would never be the same. How come you are so smart about so many things, Ann? Have you learned from experience? --- NO CHICKEN MYSELF

Dear Chick: If I had experienced all the problems I deal with, I'd be in no shape to write a column. What you read here is the result of consultation and brainpicking. I am in constant communication with outstanding authorities in a variety of fields -- and they make me look a lot smarter than I am.

Unsure of yourself on dates? What's right? What's wrong? Should you? Shouldn't you? Send for Ann Landers' booklet "Dating Do's and Don'ts," enclosing with your request 35¢ in coin and a long, self-addressed, stamped envelope.

Ann Landers will be glad to help you with your problems. Send them to her in care of this newspaper enclosing a self-addressed, stamped envelope.

If You Were The Judge

Lover Cannot Be Denied Citizenship

After attending college for one year, alien Bob decided to apply for U. S. citizenship. The Immigration authorities, however, lit a fire under his attempt to become part of the American melting pot. It seemed that upon his arrival, Bob not only found the country attractive, but he found the girls equally appealing and had several affairs with them. As a result, the Immigration authorities ruled he was not of "good moral character" so as to become eligible to become a citizen.

"You can't penalize a young man because he likes girls," was Bob's answer. "I'm a bachelor. It would be immoral if I didn't like girls. I've got degrees in chemistry and speak four languages. I'd be a fine citizen."

"Sorry," retorted the Immigration authority, "but you're a hit-and-run lover. Attention without intention is highly improper."

Intent upon becoming a citizen, Bob appealed to the courts for help.

IF YOU WERE THE JUDGE, would you preclude lover Bob from becoming a citizen because he lacked "good moral character"?

This is how the judge ruled: NO! He held that while Bob's relationships made his character less than "excellent" or less than "impeccable," what constitutes "good moral character," like what is beauty or what is great art, is a matter of opinion subject to considerable disagreements. Since recent investigation reveals Bob's conduct was far from uncommon, concluded the judge, he was not lacking in "good moral character" insofar as the Immigration Act is concerned.

The Sikeston High School basketball team lost two games last Friday, one in the afternoon at Cape Girardeau with Cape High and the other that evening with the Fornfelt High School at Fornfelt. The final score of the Cape tilt was 31 and 12 in favor of Cape High. The final score of the last game was 35 to 8 in favor of Fornfelt. The Sikeston boys had quite an experience with the high water on their way home. They found some bridges washed out and as a result were forced to take about a five-mile hike.

L. C. Erdman on Wednesday purchased through the J. Wesley Black Real Estate Co., from the W. J. Lemp Brewing Co., the lot just north of the Missouri Pacific tracks and west of Kingshighway. The pool room of James Nester occupies a building on part of the lot. Mr. Erdman bought the lot as a location for his General Garage.

On Monday the J. Wesley Black Estate Co., sold the Henry Welsh residence on North New Madrid street to Norman Davis for $4,-200. Mr. Welsh and family will take rooms at Mrs. Edmondson's after March 1st.

Middies Face Dismissal for Marijuana Use

ANNAPOLIS, Md. (AP) - The superintendent of the U.S Naval Academy says 13 midshipmen face dismissal on charges of smoking marijuana in their rooms in Bancroft Hall, the academy dormitory.

Rear Adm. Draper L. Kauffman, the superintendent, said Wednesday the dismissal recommendation would be made to Secretary of the Navy Paul R. Ignatius.

Acceptance of the recommendation by the secretary is generally considered a formality. It would be the largest group dismissed from the academy in its 123-year history.

The incident marked the second time in 10 months that midshipmen had been caught smoking marijuana in the dormitory that houses the 4,000-man brigade of midshipmen. Four were dismissed in a similar incident last June.

Kauffman said the current problem came to light after an unidentified midshipman reported that he "had seen several midshipmen who appeared to be smoking marijuana in a midshipman's room in Bancroft Hall."

A spokesman at the academy said the midshipman made his observation over the weekend and felt bound by the strict honor code to report to his superiors.

The academy said the Naval Investigative Service in Washington investigated the incident and would continue its probe to determine the source of the drug and stop its use.

Witness Defies IC Bid to Drop 7 Passenger Runs

ST. LOUIS (AP) - The proposed discontinuance of seven Illinois Central passenger trains would be "a grave mistake and a disservice to the public," a witness told an Interstate Commerce Commission hearing Wednesday in St. Louis.

John P. Stupp, president of Stupp Bros. Bridge and Iron Co., in St. Louis voiced his concern over a proposal to discontinue the Panama Limited and other passenger trains. A spokesman for the city of New Orleans also was present. The railroad argued the trains are running at a loss.

Witnesses centered their comments about the Panama, which links up at Carbondale, Ill. with a Chicago section. Six of the trains IC wants to drop run between St. Louis and Carbondale.

Collector Agrees to Supply Records

BENTON - The Scott County collector agreed Wednesday to provide Fielding Potashnick, county prosecutor, with collector fund records in connection with an investigation Potashnick is conducting into the collector's office operations.

Potashnick said the agreement was made during an informal meeting between himself, Collector Aubrey Michael and Presiding Judge Harris D. Rodgers.

"Mr. Michael agreed to furnish a list of withdrawals and deposits with dates from the collector's fund from Oct. 1, 1967, to Feb. 15, 1968," Potashnick said.

The fund contained county revenue collected by Michael's office before it was turned over to the county treasurer.

Potashnick said his intent in seeing records is to determine if he will pursue his requests of the county court for permission to file suit against Michael for violations in office operations.

The prosecutor said no date was set when records are to be ready. "I assume it would take very few days."

"I just need to analyze and see what the figures show," he said. He added that he hasn't had access to these figures before.

Potashnick's complaints are Michael has not been turning over county funds to the treasurer within the legal time limit, some funds have not been accounted for in the collector's fund and the collector's excess fees for 1966, due by March 1967, have not been paid yet.

Prosecutor Potashnick presented information about time-limit violations to the court Feb. 12. Judges took the situation under advisement and then issued this statement:

"Mr. Michael has filed all monthly settlements and has agreed to file said statements in the future according to Missouri laws. The court has decided the situation presented by Mr. Potashnick does not warrant any further action on this court's part."

The Missouri law requires collectors "file with the county clerk a detailed statement, verified by affidavit of all state, county, school, road and municipal taxes and of all licenses by him collected during the preceding month, and, shall, on or before the fifteenth day of the month, pay the same, less the commissions, into the county treasury and to the director of revenue."

The penalty is forfeiture of commissions on amount wrongfully withheld and in addition a penalty of 10 per cent on this amount.

Concerning the Missouri attorney general's opinion he is to ask for, Potashnick said it will be in regard to public inspection of the collector's fund, rather than Michael's personal bank account, as previously reported.

Wedding off as Groom Refuses to Give up Model Train

SUNDERLAND, England (AP) — Stan Kipling called off his wedding rather than move a model locomotive out of the bridal chamber.

The bride-to-be, Mrs. Janet Parkin, said the three-foot-high engine took up too much room in Kipling's bedroom. Last month the 62-year-old miner agreed to dismantle the engine, and the couple scheduled a March wedding.

Thursday Stan changed his mind.

"I just can't bear to part with the machine," he said in an interview. "It's my only hobby and I want to go on tinkering with it."

He added that the bedroom is the only place he has room for it.

Mrs. Parkin, a 66-year-old widow, collapsed on being told the wedding was off.

"I am being made to look a fool," she said, "but I will never take second place to a locomotive."

Farmer Tires of Digging up Mines

LOUTH, England (AP) — The British army is exploding farmer William Hardy's unwanted harvest.

Sappers with mine detectors have unearthed 250 mortar and smoke bombs in two days on the 80-acre tract in Lincolnshire. They believe they'll find hundreds more.

The farm was a mortar range during World War II and later was declared free of danger.

"It's been like farming a minefield," said Hardy, 33. "We can plow a field and pick up 50 of these things as easily as anything. I never bothered unduly until one bomb blew a hole in a farm machine. I'd had enough so I called in the army."

"The ground is saturated with two- and three-inch mortar bombs as well as smoke bombs," said Sgt. Malcolm Banks of the Royal Engineers. "The official who cleared the fields for farming obviously made a big mistake."

Jackie Confesses Being Out of Practice on Skis

STE. AGATHE, Que. (AP) — Venturing out into near zero cold, Mrs. John F. Kennedy skied a little Thursday on Mt. Tremblant and confessed she is out of practice.

Wearing a black ski outfit with a white hood, she posed for photographers at the foot of the slopes.

"Make it look as though I am moving really fast," she told one photographer.

"Well, move fast," he suggested.

Mrs. Kennedy winced and said, "I can't."

Author of Ribald Cartoons Dies

PORT CHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The cartoon shows a tuxedoed gentleman leaning over a girl in a strapless dress, saying, "Tell me about yourself, your struggles, your dreams, your telephone number."

It is inimitably the work of Peter Arno, the ribald cartoonist who delighted readers of the New Yorker magazine and other publications for 43 years. He died Thursday of cancer at 64. His pen lampooned a world peopled by pompous plutocrats, blank-faced blondes and wheezy dowagers and chronicled the accelerating change in the world over the past four decades.

In a depths-of-the-depression comment on the very rich, he drew some sabled matrons and their mates on their way to a newsreel theater calling to two men in a swank Fifth Avenue club, "Come on. We're going down to the TransLux to hiss Roosevelt."

During World War II there was an aircraft designer, smiling insanely as he strolled from the crash scene of his latest creation, saying, "Well, back to the old drawing board."

And, of course, there were the leering old roues, mostly in white tie, whose leader greeted an obviously shocked delegation of young lovelies, "I suppose you girls are wondering why I asked you here tonight."

Arno was born Curtis Arnoux Peters in New York City on Jan. 8, 1904, the son of a state supreme court justice. He was educated at Hotchkiss and Yale but disappointed his father by showing more interest in music than law.

He was 21 and about to begin a career in music when the New Yorker bought his first cartoon for $30 in 1925. From then on he stuck to art and 10 years later was reputedly earning $1,000 a cartoon.

In 1927 Arno married Lois Long, a New Yorker writer. After their divorce he married debutante Mary Livingston Lansing, from whom he was divorced in 1939.

Surviving are a daughter by his marriage to Miss Long, Mrs. Patricia Anne Bush of Pleasantville, N.Y., and a sister, Mrs. Frank C. Hart of Bal Harbour, Fla.

Vernon, Ill., and Mrs. Mildred Beeman, Peveley.

Fred Trover of Malden Dies

MALDEN - Fred Trover, 79, semi-retired merchant, died of a heart attack at 4:30 a.m. Thursday Hospital at Kennett.

He is survived by three sons, Edwin Trover of St. Louis, Frederick Trover of Malden and Bernard Trover of Huntington Beach, Calif.; a daughter, Mrs. Genevieve Trovillion of Evansville, Ind.; 10 grandchildren and three great grandchildren; a brother, James Trover of Herrin, Ill., and three sisters, Mrs. Slyvia Callagon of East St. Louis, Ill., Mrs. Georgia Rochelle, of Macon, Ga. and Mrs. Rosa Threlkeld of Titusville, Fla.

Potashnick said the agreement was made during an informal meeting between himself, Collector Aubrey Michael and Presiding Judge Harris D. Rodgers.

"Mr. Michael agreed to furnish a list of withdrawals and deposits with dates from the collector's fund from Oct. 1, 1967, to Feb. 15, 1968," Potashnick said.

The penalty is forfeiture of commissions on amount wrongfully withheld and in addition a penalty of 10 per cent on this amount.

Concerning the Missouri attorney general's opinion he is to ask for, Potashnick said it will be in regard to public inspection of the collector's fund, rather than Michael's personal bank account, as previously reported.

Jackie Confesses Being Out of Practice on Skis

STE. AGATHE, Que. (AP) — Venturing out into near zero cold, Mrs. John F. Kennedy skied a little Thursday on Mt. Tremblant and confessed she is out of practice.

Wearing a black ski outfit with a white hood, she posed for photographers at the foot of the slopes.

"Make it look as though I am moving really fast," she told one photographer.

"Well, move fast," he suggested.

Mrs. Kennedy winced and said, "I can't."

Wedding off as Groom Refuses to Give up Model Train

SUNDERLAND, England (AP) — Stan Kipling called off his wedding rather than move a model locomotive out of the bridal chamber.

The bride-to-be, Mrs. Janet Parkin, said the three-foot-high engine took up too much room in Kipling's bedroom. Last month the 62-year-old miner agreed to dismantle the engine, and the couple scheduled a March wedding.

Thursday Stan changed his mind.

"I just can't bear to part with the machine," he said in an interview. "It's my only hobby and I want to go on tinkering with it."

He added that the bedroom is the only place he has room for it.

Mrs. Parkin, a 66-year-old widow, collapsed on being told the wedding was off.

"I am being made to look a fool," she said, "but I will never take second place to a locomotive."

Farmer Tires of Digging up Mines

LOUTH, England (AP) — The British army is exploding farmer William Hardy's unwanted harvest.

Sappers with mine detectors have unearthed 250 mortar and smoke bombs in two days on the 80-acre tract in Lincolnshire. They believe they'll find hundreds more.

The farm was a mortar range during World War II and later was declared free of danger.

"It's been like farming a minefield," said Hardy, 33. "We can plow a field and pick up 50 of these things as easily as anything. I never bothered unduly until one bomb blew a hole in a farm machine. I'd had enough so I called in the army."

"The ground is saturated with two- and three-inch mortar bombs as well as smoke bombs," said Sgt. Malcolm Banks of the Royal Engineers. "The official who cleared the fields for farming obviously made a big mistake."

Author of Ribald Cartoons Dies

PORT CHESTER, N.Y. (AP) — The cartoon shows a tuxedoed gentleman leaning over a girl in a strapless dress, saying, "Tell me about yourself, your struggles, your dreams, your telephone number."

It is inimitably the work of Peter Arno, the ribald cartoonist who delighted readers of the New Yorker magazine and other publications for 43 years. He died Thursday of cancer at 64. His pen lampooned a world peopled by pompous plutocrats, blank-faced blondes and wheezy dowagers and chronicled the accelerating change in the world over the past four decades.

In a depths-of-the-depression comment on the very rich, he drew some sabled matrons and their mates on their way to a newsreel theater calling to two men in a swank Fifth Avenue club, "Come on. We're going down to the TransLux to hiss Roosevelt."

During World War II there was an aircraft designer, smiling insanely as he strolled from the crash scene of his latest creation, saying, "Well, back to the old drawing board."

And, of course, there were the leering old roues, mostly in white tie, whose leader greeted an obviously shocked delegation of young lovelies, "I suppose you girls are wondering why I asked you here tonight."

Arno was born Curtis Arnoux Peters in New York City on Jan. 8, 1904, the son of a state supreme court justice. He was educated at Hotchkiss and Yale but disappointed his father by showing more interest in music than law.

He was 21 and about to begin a career in music when the New Yorker bought his first cartoon for $30 in 1925. From then on he stuck to art and 10 years later was reputedly earning $1,000 a cartoon.

In 1927 Arno married Lois Long, a New Yorker writer. After their divorce he married debutante Mary Livingston Lansing, from whom he was divorced in 1939.

Surviving are a daughter by his marriage to Miss Long, Mrs. Patricia Anne Bush of Pleasantville, N.Y., and a sister, Mrs. Frank C. Hart of Bal Harbour, Fla.

Vernon, Ill., and Mrs. Mildred Beeman, Peveley.
